Arthur G. Barron of Carol ave., Allston.

In the aggregate, the charges against the five carry total maximum penalties of 70 years in prison and $140,000 in fines.

Hays, who quite the legislature in 1936 to become associated with dog racing interests, according to authorities, is charged in the indictment against him with one count of attempted income tax evasion and six counts of aiding and abetting in attempted evasions by others.

Fox and Abrams are each charged with two counts of attempted income tax evasion.

Ingraffia and Barron are each charged with one count of attempted evasion.

FIGURES CITED

In the Hays indictment it is charged that in 1935 he reported total net income of $8415.01 and on that paid a federal tax of $16.14. The government alleges, however, that his net income that year was $14,815.01, on which he should have paid a tax of $297.94—a difference of $281.80 in taxes.

In 1936, it is charged, the former legislator reported total net income of $14,176.36, on which he paid a tax of $283.52; whereas his actual net income was $27,735.36, on which the tax would be $550.98—a difference of $267.46 in taxes.

CASE AGAINST FOX

In the case of Fox the government alleges that in 1935 he reported total net income of $3197.57 and paid a tax of $55.11, whereas his actual net income was $15,997.57, on which he should have paid a tax of $319.95—a tax difference of $264.84.

In 1936, it is charged, Fox reported $13,651.71 net income and paid a tax of $273.03. The government claims he should have reported $43,899.23 and paid a tax of $877.98, or a difference in taxes of $604.95. Abrams is alleged, in 1935, to have reported a net income of $5188.52, on which he paid a tax of $22.79, whereas his real income was $15,588.52, on which he should have paid $311.77.

In 1936 Abrams is alleged to have reported only $2986.54 income, paid no tax, instead of reporting $41,326.84 and paying a tax of $826.53.

PAID ONLY $24 TAX

Ingraffia is alleged, in 1935, to have reported only $3449.39, on which he paid a $24.18 tax, instead of reporting his actual net income of $15,449.39, and paying $309.93 in taxes.

In the case of Barron, he is charged with reporting 1936 net income of $6154.40 and paying a tax of $123.18, instead of reporting actual net income of $17,864.40 and paying a tax of $357.28.

These figures were revealed by U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon who, for the past two weeks, has been presenting evidence to the grand jury, with the assistance of Asst. U. S. Attys. Henry M. Leen and Leo Looney.

Hays Long Active In Political Circles

For nearly three decades, 63-year-old Martin Hays has been an active and energetic politician on Beacon Hill—for all excepting a few of those years holding a seat either in the House or the Senate from Brighton.

A registered Republican, Hays is a lawyer with offices at 18 Tremont st. He and his wife live in Park Vale ave., Allston, but they have no children.

Governor Gives Racing Views

Governor Saltonstall said today he believed all persons owning stock in dog and horse tracks operating in Massachusetts should be "reputable citizens and residents of Massachusetts."

He made the statement in reply to a question as to whether he thought the State racing commission "should be instructed to investigate out-of-state stockholders in Massachusetts race tracks."

leader of the House was born in New York on Oct. 14, 1876, but has lived for the greater part of his life in Massachusetts, although he was educated in the New York public schools.

He was first elected to the Massachusetts House in 1910, serving for one year. He served again in 1912, 1913 and 1914, but in 1915 and 1916 was in the Senate.

In 1917 he ran again for the House and was elected, and was a continuous member of that body until 1930, when he was replaced by John Francis Murphy, a Democrat, in an unexpected upset. Again in 1935, however, Hays won back the House seat and held it until 1938, when he declined to run for re-election.

TARGET OF ATTACKS

Instead he became a director in Wonderland Amusements, Inc., operators of the Revere dog track. In mid-April of 1933, however, he severed his connection with the dog track, but no reason for his resignation was given.

In the months before his resignation he had been chief target for many of the attacks in connection with dog racing and dog racing officials at legislative hearings in the State House.

Three years earlier he had been bitterly attacked by the Allston-Brighton Ministers' Association for his support of a bill which would have established a state lottery.

During this year's federal probe

FINN DEFENDERS KILL 3000 REDS

By PETER DE HEMMER GUDME

International News Service Special Correspondent

HELSINKI, Feb. 5.—No fewer than 3000 Russian soldiers were slain, it was estimated unofficially today, when Finnish defenders hurled back four Soviet onslaughts against the Summa sector of the Mannerheim Line on the Karelian Isthmus.

The Soviet infantry attacks against the Finnish fortifications were supported by 200 warplanes and coincided with a series of air raids over Finland that killed scores and wounded still more.

Today's Finnish official communique, confining itself to the fighting north of Lake Ladoga, claimed that 500 Russians were killed in that battle alone.

Despite their reverses and the loss of nine armored cars, the Russians widened their operations to the east on the blood-stained Isthmus and fighting raged east of Lake Muolajärvi. Other points along the Mannerheim line shook to the roar of continual artillery barrages.

Soviet bombing planes today attacked a detachment of Swedish volunteer ambulances, according to an official announcement. Damage was negligible and there were no casualties, the statement said.

Eleven Soviet planes were shot down during the raids that brought death and destruction to regions from the Arctic Zone to the South-east Coast.

HIT AMBULANCE TRAIN

Two hundred bombs were dropped on Turku, already partly destroyed, and 100 houses at Sortavalla were burned as that town on the shore of Lake Ladoga was hammered by bombs from 22 planes. At least 20 persons were killed there and direct hits were reported to have wrecked a nearby ambulance train.

A Red Cross hospital and Lutheran church in Sortavalla also were reported bombed, while one missile struck a shelter near the apartment of the Greek Orthodox Bishop of Finland, killing his secretary and three other women.

Viborg, Ekensas and other towns also suffered under the raids, and in civilian areas behind the front at least 70 persons were reported killed and 50 wounded.

Seek 'Ride' Death Clue From Wife

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 5.—State police, today taking over the probe of the brutal gangland "ride" murder of John J. Kennedy, announced immediate hope for solution rested in the questioning of the victim's wife.

Mrs. Kennedy, vacationing in Florida with her son, Jackie, 16, was called home after the battered body of Kennedy was found in a Lincoln quarry.

While state police thus sought from the widow a clue that would provide a "break" in the baffling case, State Toxicologist C. Wallace Bohrer described the "viciousness" of the killers.

After battering Kennedy with a hammer, the assassins ran over him several times with the automobile in which he was taken for a ride, Bohrer said.

HUNT "OVERLORD"

Bohrer based his findings on discovery of human hair and skin on the front springs of the death car. He also indicated the possibility that Kennedy was still alive when he was tossed into the quarry.

Still another development was the unconfirmed report that authorities were hunting a so-called "overlord" of Rhode Island gambling, who, it is said, left for Florida shortly before the killing.

The mystery "big shot," it is said, recently was convicted of a felony, the nature of which was not learned, and faces a sentence still to be determined.

While 20 State Troopers combed a five-mile area around the death scene, a number of gamblers and known police characters paraded before several questioning officers, including Capt. Stenhouse, Pawtucket's Chief Inspector Wilford H. Wadsworth and Asst. Chief Inspector Vincent J. Hourigan.

From behind the closed doors, reporters heard one small, nervous character known as "Tim" tell officers repeatedly:

"Nobody in the racket knows anything about it, I tell you."

HOOK REFUSES TO HAVE DIES 'SMEAR' SPEECH EXPUNGED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (INS)—Steadfastly resisting congressional demands that his "smear" speech against the Dies Michigan today appeared before documents which the speech contained.

Hook based his plea on the claim that David Mayne, self-confessed author of the forgeries, had been "in the service" of the Dies committee prior to his manufacturing of the bogus letters used by Hook in his speech.

Hook's statement drew a heated reply from acting chairman Starnes of the Dies committee, who declared that he "bitterly resented the implication" because it reflected on the character of Reps. Voorhis (D.) of California and Cason (D.) of Massachusetts, two New Deal members who served on the subcommittee which retained Mayne last December.

"The facts of the matter are that it was Brew Pearson, a Washington newspaper columnist, who came to Mr. Voorhis and said that he knew a man who could help produce William Dudley Felger, Silver Shirts leader, for whom the committee was searching," Starnes asserted.

"Pearson introduced a Mr. David Henshaw, who in turn, brought Mayne to Mr. Voorhis. Henshaw has been in the employ of Mr. Pearson and his column, 'The Washington Merry-Go-Round'."

"It was also this same Mr. Henshaw who introduced Mayne several months earlier to Harold Welsberg and Garner Jackson." Mayne was formerly connected

Bandits Get $2000 In Theater Holdup

A lone six-foot bandit held up two special police guards and a theater manager in the lobby of the Central Sq. Theater, Bennington st., East Boston, today and escaped with $2000, the week-end receipts.

A companion waited outside in an automobile with motor running.

As John A. Joyce, assistant manager of the Seville Theater, was leaving the theater with a bag containing the money, the bandit, who was badly in need of a shave, stepped in front of him.

Despite the fact that he was flanked by Henry Petzke, 34, and Anthony Daddico, 28, special officers, the bandits calmly thrust his revolver in Joyce's side and said: "Hand it over."

As all three men raised their hands in the air the bandit took the bag and leaped into the automobile waiting at the curb.

Scores of pedestrians passed unaware of the holdup. More than a dozen theater employees were within shouting distance but did not realize a robbery was in progress.

The holdup was carried out so speedily and quietly that the bandit car had sped away towards Chelsea before anybody could interfere.

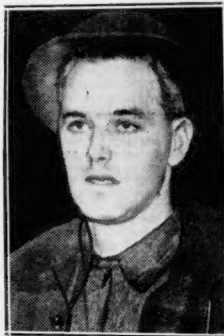

Police sent out a radio alarm.

BANDIT CAR FOUND

About 15 minutes later the bandit car, a green sedan, was recovered in Eastern ave., Chelsea. It had been reported stolen in downtown Boston several days ago.

Several minutes later police from the Charlestown station took a man into custody for questioning. A companion with whom he was talking when police arrived fled in an automobile, which police believe also was stolen.

The suspect was taken to the East Boston station, but Joyce did not identify him as the holdup man.

Girl in Plea To Drop Name Of 'Slack'

No longer will pretty 23-year-old Helen Willard "Harris" be known as "Miss Slack." If she has her way.

The girl, who lives in Grove st., Auburndale, and studies in a Boston art school, today presented a petition in Middlesex district court asking the right to change her name.

Her name is Helen Willard Slack, her petition set forth, but for years she has used the name of Harris.

"Harris was my great-grandmother's surname," she said.

"I now use the name 'Slack' only in signing documents.

"I always feel embarrassed when people use the name 'Slack' in addressing me."

She said her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Slack, consented to the change.

HARVARD BOY TELLS OF RESCUE

LITTLETON, N. H., Feb. 5.—"I felt pretty sure I'd make it. I guess I thought most about you and Mom. I didn't want you to worry."

These were the words spoken today by 19-year-old Webster N. Jones, Jr., Harvard sophomore, whose ingenuity, pluck and raw courage may bring a revision in the Harvard idea of gridiron importance.

They were spoken to a thankful father who found his son still smiling after 28 hours of snow, wind and 20-below-zero temperatures on the terrifying slopes of Mt. Washington.

And this blonde, 150-pound youth—a lad who never played a minute in a Yale game—could still laugh and even joke with the father who had flown here to his bedside in Littleton Hospital.

"Gosh, this is funny, dad," grinned this youth who watches football only from the stands. "Just think of you finally taking an airplane flight—and at your age. And after all you've always said about flying."

"I hope you didn't worry too much," he added through frost-bitten features. "After all, I was worried most about you. I figured Mom would bear up pretty well."

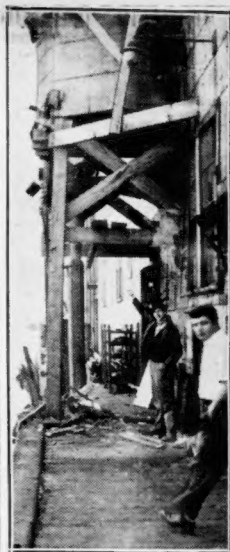

Doctors at this tiny hospital gave young Jones a "good chance" to recover in spite of the fact that long before rescuers reached his side, veteran guides who know their Mt. Washington well solemnly announced they would find "nothing but a body."

DOCTORS HOPEFUL

It will be several days now before the full effects of the mountain ordeal can be determined, but doctors are hopeful that his frost-bitten feet, hands and face will respond to treatment and that there will be no lasting aftermath to the shock and exposure.

Actually trembling with joy and thankfulness, Dr. W. N. Jones, director of engineering at Pittsburgh's Carnegie Tech, tried to

Lay Death Of Hub Man To Poison

Poison "entering through the mouth" caused the death of Prof. Edward R. Hyde, distinguished Boston engineer expert, recently a member of the faculty of the University of the Philippines, investigating G-men announced today. This medical finding in the Hyde death involved in sudden mystery what at first had seemed a routine case of fatal illness from natural causes.

Prof. Hyde, a graduate of M. I. T., and a former engineer of the Massachusetts State Highway Department, was found dead in bed several days ago in Manila, P. I.

He had been suffering from a tropical ulcer of the foot, and the physician who had treated him believed a blood infection caused his death.

It was revealed today, however, that Prof. Hyde had been using a potent poison as a curative application for the foot ulcer.

Also revealed was a finding by Dr. Gregoria Lantini, medical-legal expert for the U. S. Department of Justice, who scouted the blood-poisoning theory and officially pronounced Hyde's death due to "poison entering through the mouth."

Born in Boston, June 23, 1883, Hyde was graduated from Somerville high school in 1902. He entered Technology in September, 1902, and was graduated four years later, with a degree of bachelor of science in civil engineering.

KATHLEEN LYNCH
Wins a Divorce

Strip-Tease Costs Man His Wife

While there are some who will say it is under the right conditions, it is hardly the thing for a husband to strip-tease in a Boston night club, in the opinion of a Beacon Hill wife.

At least, Mrs. Kathleen Armour Lynch of Dene st., testified in probate court, in winning an uncontested divorce, that she protested strenuously over her husband attempting a strip-tease—and she got pushed into the snow for her pains.

Mrs. Lynch, pretty and fashionably-dressed ash blonde, who was given the right to resume her maiden name of Rolfe, testified she eloped to Nashua, N. H., on June 21, 1937, with Robert P. Lynch, formerly of Brookline but now of New York.

TELLS OF GAY PARTY

Charging her husband with cruel and abusive treatment, Mrs. Lynch said that the strip-tease incident occurred on the night of New Year's Eve, 1937.

"My husband and I," she said, "had been invited, with friends, to go to the club, where my brother played in the orchestra."

"My husband came home and he had had a lot to drink. He was in an ugly mood. I didn't want to go out, but he insisted."

"We went to the club. He had more liquor there and he started to take his clothes off. He took his coat off, then his vest, and he started to take off his pants."

"I objected. He pushed me against a table and caused a scene. He called me vile names. HIS 'UGLY MOODS'."

"I finally got his coat on, took him by the arm and had him outside in the street when he pushed me into the snow. I was dressed in evening clothes."

On other occasions, she testified, her husband attempted to force his attentions on her while he was intoxicated.

She cited one instance in March, 1933, when he came home "in an ugly mood" after drinking and said, and pulled her down violently into a chair.

FR. COUGHLIN WON'T TALK ABOUT HIS RADIO MYSTERY

DETROIT, Feb. 5.—Maintaining a tight-lipped silence, the Rev. Fr. Charles E. Coughlin today refused absolutely to explain his absence yesterday from his customary weekly radio address.

In apparent good health, Father Coughlin spoke with newsmen after he finished saying a requiem mass for an old parishioner.

"I have absolutely nothing to say," he declared.

On two previous occasions when Father Coughlin had quit the air, explanations were promptly forthcoming.

But none was advanced today for his absence from the air Sunday, beyond three cryptic announcements by Announcer Franklin Mitchell.

Mitchell, who had been assigned to Fr. Coughlin's regular Sunday broadcasts at the Shrine of the Little Flower in nearby Royal Oak, expressed himself as having been "very surprised" when he learned Father Coughlin had cancelled his talk.

'EVENTS' DUE SOON

The only suggestion to listeners that Father Coughlin might have had an extraordinary reason for remaining off the air was:

"Probably events transpiring this week will enlighten you."

Fr. Coughlin first abandoned his broadcasts shortly after President Roosevelt was re-elected in 1936, and at the same time he announced discontinuance of his National Union for Social Justice.

His second decision to quit reportedly was made at the order of Archbishop Mooney.

In dramatic fashion, the stage was set for the puzzled Mitchell's announcements Sunday. First, early listeners were urged to "telephone some friend to join this audience."

The announcer, advising hearers to "pay no heed to idle rumors which will be circulated this week," said:

"Be assured Father Coughlin knows what he is doing. He knows why neither he nor any other person is speaking over this microphone today."

CHRISTIAN FRONT CAST

Recently Father Coughlin has engaged in controversy over the subject of "the Christian Front," 17 members of which are charged with conspiring to revolt and overthrow the government.

He has declared himself "friend of the accused," saying, however, that if found guilty they should be penalized as the law states.

Last Sunday night, O. John Rogge, assistant United States attorney general, announced that charges made against Father Coughlin by the Jewish Peoples committee would be investigated "in due course."

Three announcements were made concerning Fr. Coughlin's absence from the program over his own network.

The first announcement read:

"I am instructed to say: Fr. Coughlin will not address you today. No person will address you today over this microphone. I am not authorized to give any explanation."

Fifteen minutes later came the second announcement:

"I am instructed to say: I say no heed to idle rumors which will be circulated this week. Be assured Father Coughlin knows what he is doing. He knows why neither he nor any other person is speaking over this microphone today. Probably events transpiring this week will enlighten you."

The final announcement read: "Attention please! Ladies and gentlemen: Do not be alarmed. We confidently expect that Father Coughlin will return to the microphone next Sunday. By all means do your share to have his latest audience ready to hear his message."

"Girl He Forgot" Sighs For Caliban

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (INS)—There is a forgotten woman in the Barrymore case. She is Winnie Hoveler, blonde, 23, a nightclub entertainer in Harry's New York Bar in Chicago.

"I want to do nothing that would hurt John," she said in an interview by long distance telephone. "If you will call me back after I have had a chance to phone Mr. Barrymore at the Navarro Hotel in New York, I'll talk to you."

When the reporter suggested that it might be embarrassing if Elaine answered the phone, and that, anyway, it was common knowledge backstage at the Belasco Theater that when "My Dear Children" had ended its Chicago run the great one promised to do something about putting her "name in lights in New York," Miss Hoveler admitted she had been "a dear friend" of the actor.

"I've known him since last October," she said. "After that he came to the nightclub almost every night. These are the happiest memories of my life. I had looked forward to coming to New York. But I am glad John and Elaine have made up, because anything that makes him happy will please me."

BARREMORE TAKEN ILL

Miss Hoveler's sentiments and statements were confirmed by members of the "My Dear Children" cast, who had been with Barrymore in Chicago.

Meantime Barrymore was home in bed in the Navarro, being nursed through a tummy-ache by his wife.

Barrymore had suffered three painful spells. The first came while he was on the stage Saturday night in the second scene of the second act.

The second came immediately after the final curtain, while Elaine and Doris Dudley, the young actress whose part she is taking in the show, were waiting backstage to pose for photographers with the tired but still handsome profile.

TEMPEST STILL BOILS

The third and worst occurred at a party given for members of the cast by Mrs. Natalie Spencer, financially interested in the show, in her apartment. John and Elaine arrived about 1 a. m. but were soon forced to leave because of his illness.

In the meantime the backstage tempest in a teapot that arose when Barrymore decided to restore his wife to the spank-part now played by Miss Dudley threatens to assume national importance.

Miss Dudley has received thou-

FEB. 12-22 AMERICANISM PERIOD

Special to Boston American
ALBANY, Feb. 5.—Governor Lehman has urged all citizens to observe from Feb. 12 to Feb. 22 as a period of national Americanism.

It will be noted the period begins with the anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday and ends with the anniversary of George Washington's birthday.

Here is what Lehman said: "The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce has designated the period from Feb. 12 to 22 as National Americanism week. I have been asked by the chairman of the Americanism committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Miles E. Hilton of Houston, Texas, to urge the citizens of New York State to observe Americanism week with proper ceremonies and special events.

"I am happy to comply with Mr. Hilton's request, and I desire to point out specifically that one day during Americanism week, Sunday, Feb. 18, has been set apart as Citizenship Day. On that day all citizens are urged to give consideration to the privileges and duties that go with conscientious citizenship.

"Americanism is synonymous with liberty, freedom, equality and tolerance. Any worthwhile undertaking that emphasizes that truth merits the support of all our citizens."

ALIMONY PARTY JAILS ILEANA

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5 (INS)—Ileana Laurel, wife of Film Comedian Stan Laurel, has been jailed on a charge of intoxication, but not until she had given a 200-pound policeman the struggle of his life.

Ileana last Thursday was awarded a $6500 lump settlement in her dispute with the comedian, from whom she is estranged, and neighbors complained that she was celebrating her victory too loudly.

Police went to her apartment and arrested with her Vera Leberdeff, 43, who said she was Ileana's mother. The comedian's wife is a Russian dancer.

The motion asked that Judge Prest remand the case for further proceedings to some other judge of probate.

"This judge," the motion read, "after hearing only a portion of the evidence, volunteered a statement in a conference at the bench that the proceedings 'struck him as being predatory' as set forth in the court's memo submitted to counsel in the matter of a motion to discontinue."

MOTION OVERRULED

Judge Prest, however, denied Lavelle's motion and the trial, twice interrupted because of conflicts in opinion, was resumed, with Olaf Olsen, vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston, going back on the witness stand for his third day.

Thus far, Olsen has been the only witness called in the trial, through which the heirs and administrator, Judge Edward A. Counihan, Jr., seek to void a $1,250,000 trust purported to have been set up for Harvard and Technology students by the late Charles E. Adams, wealthy Boston silk manufacturer, and his wife, the late Caroline Adams.

Lavelle again interrupted the proceedings to argue that he wished to introduce certain amendments made in the trust, some of them revoking certain bequests made to "employees and loyal friends."

ATTACKS SIGNATURES

Following establishment of the trust, said Lavelle, these amendments were made from time to time.

He charged, however, that signatures appearing on these instruments were not the signatures of Mr. and Mrs. Adams, and said he would prove this through handwriting experts.

The suit now being heard charges that duress was exercised on the aged Adams by his younger wife and by the First National Bank in drawing up the trust.

It names as defendants, in addition to the First National Bank, the Old Colony Trust Co., the president and fellows of Harvard College, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever.

Ford Hits NLRB Free Speech Gag

The National Labor Relations Board was charged today with seeking to deny the constitutional right of freedom of speech in a return filed by the Ford Motor Co.

The return was in answer to a recent order of the board involving the Somerville plant of the company, but in reference to the order's command that the company "desist from disparaging a labor organization," the company retorted:

"We shall comply with the law in the future as we have done in the past, but the right of free speech, which is guaranteed by the Bill of Rights and which is accorded advocates of Communism, is held to be 'qualified' by the NLRB when sought to be exercised by Mr. Ford or the Ford Motor Co."

Sailor Accuses Wife Of Being 'Play Girl'

SALEM, Feb. 5—His wife deserted him, after 18 years of married life, because he scolded her for drinking and running around with other men while he was at sea working as a fisherman, Arthur Kelsey Martin of Gloucester testified in probate court today.

The day his wife went away, she sent their son, Robert, to the movies and gave him so much money for candy he was sick for a week, Martin told Judge John V. Phelan in seeking a divorce.

He and his wife, Emma, were married in Gloucester, Oct. 21, 1916. He said his wife left him in January, 1934.

Judge Phelan took the case under advisement. He also withheld decision on a divorce petition filed by Mrs. Edith Webster Rowe of Newburyport.

She testified her husband struck her and pushed her out of an automobile because she reproached him for dancing with girls in a Newburyport cafe while she sat alone.

VIRGINIA FOR BLOOD TEST LAW

(Special to Boston Evening American)

RICHMOND, Feb. 5.—Spotlight of the nation-wide campaign to wipe out social diseases as the cause of blindness was focused on the state of Virginia today as legislators prepared for enactment of the Moore bill, providing for pre-marital medical examinations.

The bill, approved by the House without debate by an overwhelming majority vote, was scheduled for debate before the Senate.

With most states in the East already possessed of pre-marital health laws, and numerous others throughout the country fast becoming aware of the necessity of such laws, the drive to wipe out one of the major causes of blindness through legislation now amounts to a virtual public demand on state legislatures.

Behind efforts to bring every state in the Union to adopt laws providing for health examinations before marriage are numerous welfare and educational organizations such as the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the American Social Hygiene Ass'n. The bill came before the Virginia Senate would not prohibit the marriage of infected persons, but provides that both parties be informed of the results of blood tests.

The theory is that knowledge of infection would serve as a check to couples contemplating marriage until a cure had been effected.

3 'Honor Unit' Girls Surrender

Tired, hungry and hysterical, three pretty inmates of Sherborn reformatory surrendered to South Boston police today after they escaped from the "honor unit" at the reformatory last night.

Margaret Hubbard, 19, of Wakefield; Pauline Hersey, 18, of Lynn, and Elizabeth Feeney, 18, of Lynn, walked out in their prison garb and hitch-hiked to Boston.

According to the story they told police, they had been recently transferred to the "honor unit" for good behavior. All three were serving indefinite terms. Last night, they said, they decided to "see the world and get jobs."

After thumbing several rides they found themselves on Broadway, South Boston, and their hysteria attracted attention of passersby who took them to the police station.

Sherborn authorities returned them to the institution.

How to tell if there's

THERE'S a necessary difference between the advertised price of an automobile delivered at the factory, and the price you pay for it delivered here in your home town.

That difference covers a charge for transportation from the factory to you, based on rail rates, and also the dealer's charge for any extra equipment or accessories that you may elect to buy.

That's all there is to the difference. At least, that's all there should be. But sometimes an extra item that you can't quite put your finger on, gets included in that final delivered price.

The trade has a word for this extra item. It calls it a "pack." Usually it's tucked in there to allow for "dickering" with you on the used car you trade in. Sometimes it's simply plus profit.

In the public interest, and to enable you more accurately to judge the values we offer, we General Motors dealers are making the details of pricing unmistakably plain.

On every car on our showroom floors we are displaying the standard GM "plainview" price tag pictured here.

This tag shows you every item that goes into our final delivered prices—and gives you a helpful yardstick for measuring exactly what your money buys alike from us or from others.

Similar information is given you on a wall chart we display, and in an itemized invoice supplied you when you buy.

Come see the splendid new General Motors cars for 1940 that we have now on view. We believe you will agree they are the best-made, best-styled, best-performing cars we've ever sold.

Examine their features. Check their quality, point by point. Then consider the price tag. Thus you appraise for yourself their impressive merit and their outstanding value.

THIS IS THE STANDARD GM "PLAINVIEW" PRICE TAG

Consider the price of the car as delivered to you as well as the General Motors dealer's method of pricing their cars. It is the basis of adding to the price of the car itself the dealer's conditional charge for Federal Tax and the dealer's conditional charge for transportation from factory to you based on rail rates. Any additional equipment or accessories that you may elect to buy are extra.

Make	Series
Model	No. of Wheels
Price of Car

Cash Delivered Price of Car
Optional Equipment and Accessories at Extra Cost
Total Cash Delivered Price as Displayed
State & Local Taxes, if any, extra

INCREASE VALUE IS TO ENRICH LIFE

This is the standard price tag used by General Motors dealers to show what makes up the prices of new cars delivered to customers. "PRICE OF CAR" means the price we charge for the car itself, including reimbursement for Federal Tax and conditioning — "TRANSPORTATION CHARGE" means a charge for transportation from factory to you, based on rail rates — "OPTIONAL EQUIPMENT AND ACCESSORIES" means the charge for any extra equipment or accessories you elect to buy.

War Diary

156th Day

(By the Associated Press)
Night air raids by Soviet war-planes brought terror and severe damage to two Finnish cities, Turku and Viipuri. Fires burned throughout the night after sweeping air attacks but the Finns, reporting Russian raids had occurred for the past few nights behind the lines, reiterated their intention of stiffened resistance against the invaders.

Pounding attacks against Finland's Karelian isthmus defense lines have failed anew, the Finns said, and resulted in 1000 Russian casualties at Summa and "heavy" losses at Muolajarvi.

Finland reported 40 civilians were killed and 50 wounded Saturday at the start of a weekend which saw successive waves of Russian planes roar across the Finnish frontier. Finns claimed to have shot down 11 of the machines.

In Europe's other war, the main activity was at sea where German aircraft struck three times last week against merchant ships off the British coast.

Germany said 14 ships were sunk Saturday in raids which cost three U.S. planes.

Britain acknowledged ten ships had been attacked and at least one sunk, but declared the German claims were "absurd." The Western Front remained quiet.

4 BALKAN NATIONS SIGN PACT

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 5 (AP)—Rumania, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia have extended their entente for seven years, pledging continuance of their present neutral status "so as to preserve this part of Europe from the trials of war."

Ending a three-day conference last night, Balkan entente diplomats set out for their capitals, each determined to work out relations with larger powers and one another on an individual basis.

The conference, called to seek concrete ways of barring war from Southeastern Europe, was believed by most foreign observers to have failed to unite the four nations except for broadly-worded decisions on neutrality, independence and promotion of trade within the entente.

There were no absolute guarantees. Rumania, caught in the Allied-German trade pincers, was seen by neutral observers as failing in her aim to turn the entente into a military alliance to assure assistance in case of German or Soviet Russian threats to her independence.

The partners, however, declared their "will to remain united within the entente" and to watch in common over the safeguarding of the rights of each of them to independence and to national territory.

The ministers, the communique said, agreed to keep in "close contact" until the next ordinary session of the permanent council at Athens in Feb. 1941.

Japs Still Pursue Chinese 'Ghost' Chief

HONGKONG, Feb. 5 (AP)—Japanese reported their "ghost" chase advancing today with Chinese forces in Inner Mongolia in flight from several lost strongholds.

The "ghost" the Japanese are hunting is General Ma Chan-Shan, Chinese leader whom they reported killed eight years ago, but who has been a thorn in their side several times since.

Geo. W. Brewster Dies in N. Y. Hotel

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (INS)—George W. Brewster, 51, of 253 Frochambeau ave., Providence, R. I., died of heart disease in his room at the Hotel Lexington here.

Hotel officials said he was a member of the Rhode Island State Liquor Control Board.

Latest Ship Casualties

OSLO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Two Scandinavian steamers were feared lost today.

The 1367-ton Norwegian ship Segovia was reported missing with a crew of 22 and one passenger on a voyage from Portugal to Norway. She was last heard from in the Bay of Biscay Jan. 29.

The other was the 1357-ton Swedish steamer Andalusia, reported sunk and her crew of 21 lost on a voyage from Bordeaux to Goteborg (Gothenburg).

Gandhi-Linlithgow Peace Parley Fails

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 5 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi and India's viceroy, Lord Linlithgow, failed today to reach an agreement on Indian demands for independence.

Wrapped in a shawl over his thin cotton robes, the Hindu leader left the conference today hinting he would leave New Delhi tomorrow without waiting for the results of the viceroy's talks with the Moslem faction.

A communiqué indicated Britain had only offered an oft-repeated assurance to consider India's demands for independence "when the time came"—this time presumably being after the European war.

Gandhi, the communiqué said, made it plain that the British proposals did not meet the demands of the Congress (Nationalist) party. "He (Gandhi) suggested and the viceroy agreed that in the circumstances it would be preferable to defer for the present further discussions with the object of solution of difficulties which have arisen," the communiqué reported.

The essence of Gandhi's argument was that Britain must extend to India the same democracy for which she professes to be fighting on the western front. The British, in reply, have avowed a determination to give India dominion status similar to Canada's as rapidly as possible in view of defense and commercial problems and the questions of minorities and prince-rules states.

Gandhi came to the viceroy as the sole envoy of the Congress (Nationalist) party, whose platform calls for complete post-war Indian independence, with the power to frame a new constitution.

The question confronting the conference was how some working agreement could be reached which Gandhi would regard as consistent with his party's aims and yet not violate reservations which the British say stand in the way of orderly Indian independence.

The talks, which may extend for a week, were arranged and carried out in secret without public comments or reports on their progress.

Justice Black Has Cold, Goes to Hospital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black is in a hospital, suffering from what was described by his office as a "slight cold."

His secretary said Black went to the hospital for treatment "as a precaution" and expected to return to the bench in a few days.

FINNS KILL 3000 REDS IN ROUT

Ladoga succeeded in capturing Salmi Island, midway between the shore town and the Finnish Island of Mantsi, where the heroic defense against Russian attacks put up by a small band of defenders has earned the fortress the name of "Finland's Alcazar."

But today it was reported that the defenders of Mantsi have run out of ammunition.

One of the heaviest sufferers under the shower of Russian bombs was the city of Viipuri, Finland's second metropolis and seaport, which was left an inferno following raids which dumped some 500 high-explosive and incendiary bombs into its buildings and streets.

Harvard Boy's Own Story

hush his son and urged him to sleep.

"I'm going to be all right," the boy assured him. "I want to tell you about it. And besides, this all is not going to make any difference about mountain climbing. I've always said I'd climb Mt. Everest and I'm going to. That's final."

"When that blizzard struck us Saturday morning I knew we were in for it. We were only part way down and I figured one of us had better make a run for it. I figured I was in better shape than Karl so I told him to make a run for it."

Young Jones referred to his companion on the wild mountain climbing and skiing venture, Karl J. Sax, 20, Harvard senior, who stumbled into rescuers and started the back-trail search. Now back at Harvard's Stillman Infirmary, Sax was pronounced in good condition today, although there still was a chance he may lose several frost-bitten fingers.

"I went as far as I could," Jones continued. "I kept at it until I knew it was getting too dangerous. Then I found a rock shelter off the trail away and wrapped up in my blankets to wait out the storm."

"They say now it was blowing 100 miles an hour."

"I knew I had to stay awake so I kept singing. I guess nobody ever sang 12 hours straight before. But it was the only way. I kept rubbing my toes after I figured the frost had gotten them. I took off my ski boots and kept rubbing my feet. I guess I prayed a little too."

Finns Add $1000 to Fund

Officials of the Finnish Temperance Society Hall today announced total proceeds of a city-wide campaign for Finnish relief had gone beyond the $1000 mark as a result of contributions at a single dinner.

Six hundred Finns and their friends financed the dinner at the hall. Then gave $1 each. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Karppi, of Pleasant St., East Weymouth, told of their ex-

Ice Traps 2 Ships; New Cold on Way

Ice continued to obstruct New England coastwise shipping

today, as another cold wave was predicted for tomorrow, probably preceded by light snow late today and tonight.

The island of Nantucket remained cut off from the mainland, except by air. Heavy pack ice all around the Nantucket shoreline stopped steamship operations and locked fishing vessels and other small craft at their anchorages.

Coast guard ice breakers toiled to free the schooner William H. Jewell, trapped by ice in Rockland, Me., harbor, and the tanker Barbara Ruxton, similarly trapped at Tiverton, R. I.

Auto traffic between East Boston and Chelsea was blocked for more than half an hour today when the sea-going tug Nancy Moran was trapped by ice in the open draw of the Chelsea st. bridge which connects Eastern ave., Chelsea, with Chelsea st., East Boston.

Ice cakes piling up in front of the Nancy Moran shunted her helplessly on diagonal courses which threatened to wreck her against the bridge supports.

She was finally pulled through the Chelsea creek channel by the tug Mercury, a harbor icebreaker.

While the bridge draw was forced to remain open an auto jam extended for miles along Eastern ave., Central ave. and Marginal st., Chelsea, and Chelsea st., East Boston.

ICE THREATENS CANAL

The Merchants and Miners freight and passenger liner Alleghany reached Boston today after a slow and difficult passage through ice in Buzzards' Bay and the Cape Cod canal.

The skipper, Capt. Archie Brooks, said he was halted 20 minutes in Buzzards bay before he could break a channel there.

He said the canal was full of heavy floating ice which threatened to pack and block the waterway.

COLUMBUS, OHIO: For over 20 years Dr. F. M. Edwards (widely known physician) successfully treated scores of patients for constipation and the headache, lack of energy and mental dullness which often result.

This wise Doctor knew liver bile must flow freely every day into your intestines or fatty foods can't be properly digested and you may become constipated. So he kept this in mind when he perfected his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful, yet they assure gentle, thorough bowel movements and ALSO help stimulate bile flow. Test their goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

AID FOR PATIENTS IN REBUS PUZZLES

REBUS GAMES make hospital hours fly! Small patients in the infantile paralysis ward of the New York hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled work out a page of knotty Rebus puzzles. Rebuses are a series of illustrations in which picture symbols are used in place of words and letters.

The mental stimulus and relaxation afforded by puzzle games has been found of such therapeutic value for convalescent and chronically ill patients, according to hospital authorities, that the newest popular development—the rebus puzzle—has now been introduced into several hospitals throughout the country.

At the Hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled in New York city, one of the first to introduce these games for the enjoyment of the child patients there, it was pointed out that in all hospitals one of the major problems that confronts doctors and nurses is that of bolstering the morale of patients during a period of long convalescence or chronic illness. Mentally absorbing pastimes contribute effectively to this result.

Reading, although it would appear to be the ideal solution, does not always afford sufficient concentration to enable patients to forget their illness.

Rebus games, which have become leaders in the puzzle field, are currently keeping patients amused and happy in wards and private rooms in hospitals throughout the United States.

These puzzles, in which picture symbols are used in place of words and letters, range from simple problems capable of being solved by children to those intricate and involved enough to hold the attention of adults.

At the Hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled in New York city nurses in the infantile paralysis ward have been heartened by the happy effects on the small children of the rebus games. So greatly have these puzzles caught the children's fancy that they have formed teams and keep daily scores which are tallied at the end of the week.

Loat Methuen Plant Of Safe and $225

METHUEN, Feb. 5 (AP)—The victim of this robbery not only provided the loot, but the transportation for the getaway.

Thieves broke into the Lawrence Beverage Co.'s plant early today, lowered a 500-pound safe containing $255 to a basement garage, loaded it aboard a company truck, and drove a mile away, where they broke open the safe, pocketed the cash, and escaped.

DEMOCRATS BACK IN BLACK AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Democratic National committee cheered the news today that a $250,000 party deficit had been more than wiped out by over $400,000 in receipts from the recent Jackson Day dinners.

The report was submitted by Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., who said that additional collections probably would bring the Jackson Day receipts to $300,000—the largest sum the extra-fare dinners have ever yielded.

Quayle's report led to the adoption of a resolution authorizing Chairman James A. Farley to make him treasurer, instead of acting treasurer.

Meeting to select a convention city and possibly a date, the Democratic committee heard from Quayle that if Jackson Day dinner pledges are all paid and a sizable sum is collected from the city obtaining the convention, "then we will be able to carry along our activities up to convention time."

"We will be able to start the presidential campaign without a sizable deficit," he added.

Mrs. Lucetta Grady, California committeewoman, reports that San Francisco would bid up a $235,000 for the convention. Philadelphia interests were ready to offer a certified check for $125,000, and it was considered likely that this offer would be increased.

Chicago representatives would only reiterate that they would make a "reasonable offer."

Vice President Garner, an avowed presidential candidate, exchanged greetings with numerous committeemen. There was sprinkling of applause when Garner answered the roll call, and the Texan, seated on the rostrum, rose and bowed slightly.

Why Plumbers' Faces Were Red

SNOW HILL, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—For three days two forces of plumbers labored to thaw out water pipes leading into the homes of Mrs. Linda Price, Norman Hall and Dewey Percy.

Lead-in pipes were unearthed and heated, trenches dug, and blow torches flamed hours on end. But—no water.

Then Herman Truitt, a workman, walked over to home city's main water line and turned a valve. Water spouted at disconnected pipes all around the three yards.

How the valve got shut off still is a mystery.

Jail Lynn Man In Milk Defiance

A 54-year-old Lynn milk dealer Nathan Feld, was sent to jail today for an indefinite stay, until he has "purged himself" of contempt to federal court by refusal to pay $15,000 to the milk marketing administration.

Feld and his son, M. Herbert Feld, had been charged with about 40 other dealers of failure to comply with the milk marketing act.

The two were the only dealers who fought the matter in court, and Friday Judge Sweeney adjudged them in contempt. Today he ordered the father to jail, but held the son again until Feb. 26 in $2000 bond.

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 14¢ and 24¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Clash Marks Dies 'Smear Plot' Session

with the Silver Shirts organization as one of its Washington representatives.

Weinberg, a former Senate civil liberties committee employee, and Jackson, legislative representative of Labor's Non-Partisan League, paid Mayne $105 for the purported forged letters implicating Dies with Pelley and turned them over to Hook, who used them in his speech.

Hook, in appearing before the rules committee, was confronted with one of the alleged forgeries seized by Dies committee investigators. Consisting of a Silver Shirts letterhead pasted to the body of a letter dated July, 1939, Boston, Mass., it was the original of a photographic copy in Hook's possession.

"I ask you to examine that Mr. Hook," Rep. Cox (D.) of Georgia said, "and tell this committee if that is not the document of which you possess a photographic copy, and that in using it you were unfair to your colleague Martin Dies."

CLASHES WITH FISH

Hook, upon examining it, conceded that it agreed with the photographic copy.

"I think that is confession enough," said Cox.

"But I do not concede it is a forgery," Hook replied. "Hook clashed with Rep. Fish (R.) of New York, when the latter asked if Hook knew that Jackson had made contributions to Communist organizations."

"I've known Gardner Jackson for a number of years and he is one of the finest men I know," Hook cried.

"You might be interested to know," Fish said, "that in 1935 I put six photographic copies in the record of checks by Jackson—then senior counsel for the AAA in the Department of Agriculture—by which Jackson had made contributions to the Communist party's rank and file committee."

In pleading entrapment, Hook asserted:

"If there was a plot it was a plot between a man employed by the Dies committee and the Pelley organization to put people out on a limb. Was it entrapment by investigators of the Dies committee? I feel that it was."

Prior to Hook's statement, Rep. Hoffman (R.) of Michigan, introduced a resolution that his colleague's remarks against Dies be expunged from the Congressional Record on the ground they violated House rules.

CHARGES GROSS VIOLATION

Hook told the rules subcommittee that he had asked the Department of Justice to investigate the documents, said by the Dies committee to have been forged by David Mayne, but has had no report.

"As long as I have any mental reservation I could not ask to have the documents withdrawn," said Hook.

Hoffman told the rules committee that Hook's attack on Dies—while the latter was sick in Texas—was a gross violation of rules of conduct of the legislative body.

Hook asserted that integrity of the House has been violated.

Concerning the purported bogus letters from Pelley, which referred to Dies, Hook said:

PAID MAYNE'S EXPENSES

"It is not unlawful to be a member of the Silver Shirts or associated with a member," Hook told the subcommittee that Mayne, who told the Dies committee that he forged letters used by Hook, referred to the statement of Rep. Voorhis (D.) of California, chairman of a Dies subcommittee, that he paid Mayne's expenses to North Carolina.

Rep. Dempsey (D.) of New Mexico, member of the Dies committee, was linked by this statement.

"The fact is that Voorhis thought Mayne could help locate Pelley and paid his expenses to Asheville for that purpose," said Dempsey.

Hook exhibited a photo copy of a letter which, he said, Rhea Whitely, former general counsel of the Dies committee, wrote to Mayne on December 7, 1939, asking Mayne to get in touch with him.

Louis Fox Well Known In Politics, Sports

Louis Fox, one of those indicted today by the federal grand jury in the racing probe, is a prominent Revere sportsman and political power during the last 15 years who has been a government witness in several North Shore murder cases.

These included the slayings of Nate Siegal, former boxer, and of Louis Gaeta, Revere gambler and cafe owner.

Fox also was a witness before the Middlesex grand jury in the Everett graft case several years ago.

Hyman Abrams has been a partner in several business ventures during the past 15 years with Fox. Mario Ingraffia for several years lived in Newton and during the past few years has made his headquarters in Providence, where he was interested in a brewery.

Ingraffia was also questioned by the police at the time of the Siegal death and in 1932 was indicted in St. Louis for conspiracy in a liquor violation.

If Your Ankles Swell You Can't Feel Well

To your ankles swell, or are you tired and worn out a lot of the time with dark circles under your eyes? If so, the cause may be fourfold: rather than organic or even a bad cold, trouble. 'Shop Around the Corner' Charming, Romantic Comedy

Lubitsch Makes State's Film Hit

By PEGGY DOYLE

Not content with making us laugh our heads off with Garbo in "Ninotchka," Ernst Lubitsch, whose directorial touch invariably can be depended upon to turn even dross into pure gold, has performed another splendid miracle.

With a slight story about unimportant people, he has by the sheer magic of his well-known humor and taste—made of "The Shop Around the Corner" a charming, heart-warming, romantic comedy. When you're doing your movie-shopping this week, don't overlook this one at Loew's State Theater.

Your old friend, the Wizard of Oz, Frank Morgan, becomes Matschek of Matschek & Co. for Lubitsch's and Meier's purposes—and perfectly at home he is as the gruff yet tender, hated proprietor of this folksy "shop-around-the-corner" business.

Just as at Loew's State, the surrounding is Mr. Smith who went to Washington and added to the top of the tin box office attractions during the Christmas season (it is you). To some extent, and for Stewart's film, who under Lubitsch's benign, inspired guidance, all performers in the not performance.

Margaret Sullavan, for instance, as the lonely Miss Nark, who defeats Morgan's frantic clerk, Stewart, in a roomy gesture that he is the Dear Friend who writes such little letters in response to her anonymous epistles.

Then, there is Joseph Schildkraut's Civil Kaddis who is so obsequious to Matschek while he is carrying on a clandestine affair with Mrs. Matschek. And, of course, Felix Bressart, whose performance was one of the best recommendations for "Ninotchka." Bressart is again delightful as the capricious clerk who forgets his fidelity when a fellow clerk's welfare is concerned. William Tracy's bash errand-boy is another gem portrayal.

Huston Creates New Role In 'A Passenger to Bali'

The stage portraits that Walter Huston has given to the American theater have truly been cut from a versatile canvas.

Each character delineation in his impressive list emerged in its time with such finality that it became synonymous with his name. Yet his next appearance on the stage, screen or air, was inevitably in a totally different genre.

Since the critics first "discovered" him in a minor role a Block Pemberton production, they have not ceased marveling at his inexhaustible variety.

His latest addition is the mysterious "doppelganger," star of "A Passenger to Bali," which Montromery Ford brings to the Shubert

Theater on Monday, Feb. 19. It is a far cry, as all who see it will admit, from the blustering Peter Stuyvesant, whose peg-leg stomped through "Knickerbocker Holiday" a season ago to the latest Huston portrayal.

Under the direction of his son, John Huston, the actor is fashioning a character that must stand comparison with such immortal forebears as Sam Dodsworth, and Lincoln, and Rhodes, and Elmer the Great, and "The Barker," and the chief executive of "Gabriel Over the White House," and Ephraim Cabot, grim old fanatic of Eugene O'Neill's "Desire Under the Elms."

With every one he gave himself a theatrical assignment that breathed life into his character.

REPRESENTATIVE Frank E. Hook of Michigan, who made serious charges against a colleague a few days ago, has announced he will tell the House today he is convinced the documents on which he based the charges were forgeries.

The member so accused was Representative Martin Dies, chairman of the House Committee Investigating un-American Activities.

Mr. Hook says he will ask the unanimous consent of the House "to remove the remarks from the record."

Mr. Hook's statement is all right in its way—but it does not weigh MUCH as the merry jester said.

Mr. Hook should have convinced himself that the documents were forgeries—or were not—before he arose in the House to malign a fellow Congressman.

Instead of which he made no investigation whatever—at least none sufficient to divulge the easily obtained truth—so eager was he to attack Congressman Dies, and apparently to prevent the further exposure of COMMUNIST SUBVERSION by the Dies Committee.

Mr. Hook should certainly explain to the House WHY he was so eager to malign Congressman Dies, and why he did not determine the genuineness of the calumniating documents before using them, and why he was so anxious to PROTECT Communist subversion and to prevent further revelations of Communist activity.

AN INVESTIGATION of Congressman Hook and his associates would seem to be in order, and no forged documents will be necessary to determine where he stands.

As Senator Carter Glass of Virginia remarked, the Hook episode "presents a very serious situation, and I think any effort to undermine American democracy should be thoroughly investigated, first by the House and if need be by a Federal grand jury."

Representative Frank B. Keefe of Wisconsin, who blocked Mr. Hook's first attempt to obtain unanimous consent to expunge his remarks from the record, commented:

"If criminal statutes have been violated, the full majesty of the law should be invoked. There should be an object lesson to the entire country against the injection of scurrilous matter into the Congressional Record, thus indirectly and by innuendo impugning the character of the entire House of Representatives."

This whole matter is very obviously a very serious matter. Congressman Hook cannot allege he had no reason to suspect the documents might have been forgeries, because others in his presence at the time the documents were produced questioned their authenticity.

Among those present at the dinner in the home of Gardner Jackson, who furnished the money for the purchase of the documents, was Congressman Coffee of Washington who has testified that he told the other guests, including Mr. Hook, THAT HE BELIEVED THE DOCUMENTS WERE SPIRIOUS.

Mr. Coffee revealed that he was urged by Jackson, legislative lobbyist for the Labor Non-Partisan League, to use the documents in fighting the continuation of the Dies Committee, but that he had refused to do so BECAUSE HE BELIEVED THEM SPIRIOUS.

Finally, it appears that of the six Congressmen originally present at the dinner only Mr. Hook remained after all the others had left—and after all these reflections had been cast on the documents.

And six days later, Mr. Hook presented the documents to the House in his prepared speech, despite the expressions of doubt concerning their genuineness made by his colleagues.

THE APPARENT PICTURE here is of a conspiracy, supported by forgery, to discredit the Dies Committee and to prevent further disclosures of Communist activity.

If the House of Representatives wants to PREVENT this kind of conspiracy and forgery and support of Communist activity and opposition to legitimate investigation of situations dangerous to the peace and security of the country, it should proceed against the conspirators, AND AGAINST MR. HOOK, with the full powers of the law, and not exonerate or allow either them or him to avoid proper punishment.

Nothing short of a FEDERAL GRAND JURY INVESTIGATION seems adequate or sufficient for getting the whole truth of this matter.

Apparently the Dies Committee, by stirring up this amazing conspiracy, has flushed a most important quarry.

Roses and Wine

SUMMER comes and the slum kids play . . . and dance on the city streets so gay . . . their mothers over a washboard bent . . . in a reeking, sun-baked tenement.

But what care they for the countryside . . . when their simple wants are satisfied? . . . With a mud-puddle for a wading pool . . . no wonder they can keep so cool.

The sunset fades and the night is still . . . From afar floats the call of the whippoorwill . . . Then why for the "other half" repine . . . when life is short and swiftly sped . . . and pleasure all too soon has fled . . . with a Summer of roses and wine?

Human Side of News

By EDWIN C. HILL

OLD WALT WHITMAN, noble of the mattress beard, and he conch-horn utterance, summoning America to its high destiny, finally gets a place on a postage stamp. They fired him from his sleazy, little job in the Treasury Department, a chore which was not much more than licking postage stamps.

When he published "Leaves of Grass," press and pulpit—in fact, nice people in general—denounced him violently. Its bold, bucolic outcry was an unseemly disturbance to our early Victorians, just then getting dressed up and going to town, in the era of prunes and prisms.

OLD slack-pants Walt was pretty much of a hermit after that, living and dying alone in his shabby, little shack in Camden, N. J., more celebrated nowadays for soup than for poetry. Slick poets in the big towns ridiculed his string-bait meter. There were few to reckon him among the great, and probably none to vision his ample shrubbery emblazoned on a five-cent stamp. "Not till the sun excludes you will I exclude you."

It seems fitting that the Homeric contenance of the author of this line should find its place on the all-pervasive, all-Democratic, non-exclusive postage stamp, which circulates among the just and the unjust. For old Walt Whitman that somehow seems much better than a place in the Hall of Fame.

He was the lusty poet of this "continuing America" and, above all, of the common man, but I am not sure that the common man knows it.

I WAS interested in that the other day when the British Somerset Maugham, in his magazine article previously referred to here, so designated him. Mr. Maugham seemed to think that we commoners sat up late to read Whitman and chant his majestic dithyrambs in chorus. It is unhappily not true. I believe a great many more of us go for Eddie Guest than for old Walt.

No, Whitman is still enshrined in that Arcanum of our national literature where the intelligentsia keep watch and ward, and not in the market place. He wouldn't like that. His horse chant is indeed a noble invocation of "the democracy of these States."

And he was such a real democrat that he would have said of Eddie Guest, "Not till the sun excludes you will I exclude you."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 5—

Both the President and I left Washington last night, but both of us went to our trains later than we expected. The reception was the largest one we have held this year and after it was over, a few of the people who were staying in the house, went up to the President's study to talk for a few minutes. It seemed a little odd to go off and leave our guests, but my aunt, Mrs. David Gray, who is staying with us, was asked to be hostess and to watch over their comfort.

Mlle. Eve Curie arrived Friday afternoon for dinner and the night, and the President was very glad to see her again. She tells me that she must return to France in two and a half months when her contracts have been fulfilled, for she is mobilized for work there. I looked at this slender, dark, very chic and charming woman, who does not look as though she were made for hard work, and yet can come over to this country and spend two months on the road.

She looks—her best on all occasions, meets people, I am sure, with the thought in her mind that she is not only making friends for herself, but for her country and that, therefore, she must try to meet as many people as possible to draw out their views and, if possible, leave them with a friendlier feeling toward her nation than they had before.

Mlle. EVE CURIE

"Slender, Dark, Very Chic"

THE PRESS CAME to see her and, I imagine, gave her a very uncomfortable hour, for it was their job to try to get something startling in the way of news, regardless of whether it made life more difficult for her.

The result must be that an interview with the press anywhere is more or less a battle of wits in which she must be careful to say nothing which might seem to suggest that she is trying to influence or criticize anything in this country while we are offering her our hospitality.

With the best intentions in the world, it is hard always to foresee in what way the simplest phrase may be interpreted.

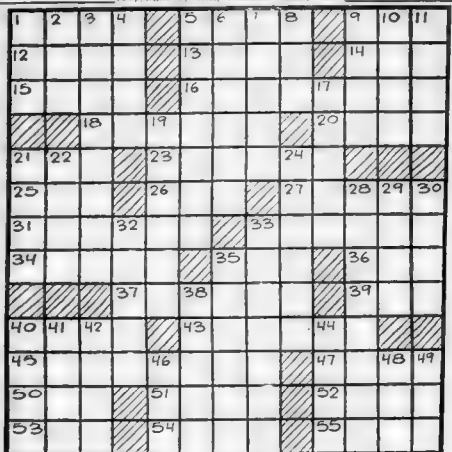

I wonder sometimes that our visitors from other lands do not fall into the pitfalls spread for them more often than they do. In any case, I think France is fortunate in sending over Mlle. Curie, for she wins the hearts of those who come in contact with her and her mother's great achievements as a scientist have already laid the foundation for friendlier feeling where the women of this country are concerned.

I HAVE BEEN trying on two Easter dresses and ordering a new knit fabric dress which my friend, Mrs. June Hamilton Rhodes, recommended because she said I could travel a long time in it, roll it into a ball if necessary and have it come out uncreased.

She showed me one she had worn on her trip to the West Coast and back, but the proof of any pudding is always in the eating and I can tell you more about this dress later, on in the Spring.

MOTHER OF 6 FIGHTS WAR PERIL

Enrolled herself, a Mexico, Maine, mother of six sons today sought 25 other mothers to join her in the ranks of the National Legion of Mothers of America and forward the campaign to keep American boys away from foreign battlefields.

She is Mrs. H. Breaux and she writes:

"Please send me 25 pledge cards and I will get my friends to join. I have six sons and three are of military age."

At the same time, Mrs. Bertha Haynes of 81 Broadway, Taunton, who lost a son in the World War writes:

"Please enroll me as one of the Legion of Mothers. I lost a son due to the last war and have two other sons in the National Guard. I would never want them to go and fight on foreign soil. Keep up the good work. We mothers are behind you 100 per cent."

With three brothers of military age, Dorothy Burns, 17 Cross st., Lawrence, writes in joining the Legion:

"I have three brothers old enough to go to war. I don't think that our boys should be sent to fight on foreign soil. We should all fight to keep America out of war. We have a peaceful democracy so let's fight to keep it so."

Only for America would she sacrifice her son in the cause of war, a Roxbury mother, Mrs. Fred Sullivan, 131 Blue Hill ave., writes:

"I am the mother of a son of military age and would not be willing to have him go to fight in foreign countries. If it was for the protection of our own country I would feel different."

A Jamaica Plain mother of two sons, Mrs. Louisa Gelinas, 47 Forbes st., sends in her pledge and writes:

"I am the mother of two sons of military age and I strongly advocate any measures to keep America out of war. The horrors of the last war are a grim warning to remain neutral and peaceful."

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Beach . . . The priest said he would keep the date when called . . . The Boston Sportsmen's and Boat Show enjoyed its best Sunday in history when 22,785 admissions were clocked at 10:15 p. m.
ALONG SAILBOAT ROW at the show, a sort of "atove-league" for Boston yachtsmen was underway and the strongest sort of a protest has been launched against the plan of the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association to change the name of the Winabout class to the Mass Bay 16-footers . . . The Winabouts were conceived here by Frank Myers' designers and the class has national standing . . . Changing the name would lop-off a large part of the turn-in value of the popular little boats.
MEANTIME—AT THE MAYFAIR a lad named Marc Bolle

(a Greater Boston youngster) is holding the floor until exhaustion—or about as long as Joe E. Lewis used to find it necessary to score a breakthrough from enthusiastic audiences . . . This kid is a marvelous mimic . . . Moreover, he has a quality of masculine comph of the kind Jules Garfield showed in the Broadway showbiz which won him a chance at Hollywood, where he became John Garfield . . . (He's changing his name back to Jules for his Broadway return)
While watching young Bolle's enchant a capacity gathering Saturday night we were hoping that this kid gets a chance at a good role in a good play . . . He must be able to act—this youngster. It's a long jump from a nightclub floor to a legitimate stage, as Sheila Barrett had to learn (poor girl) . . . I have a hunch this Marc could make it . . . It's a waste—what he's doing

'SPREE' TOUGHER THAN SPEE BATTLE

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP) Take it from a hard-bitten veteran of the greatest naval battle thus far of the European conflict: "Dancing is harder work than gunnery."
 He is just one of the seamen of the cruiser Ajax—one of the three British warships which chased the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee into Montevideo harbor—worn by the strain of the British welcome.

The Ajax reached Plymouth last Wednesday and all this week and the sailors have been feted.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

MEMBERS of the Boston Skating Club enjoyed a preview of the national skating championship competition which takes place next week-end at Cleveland, at a party at the new enclosed rink Saturday evening . . .

The affair was a farewell party for club members who will compete for national titles, and after a jolly supper and moving pictures, the guests of honor reciprocated with a thrilling exhibition of figure skating . . .

Thunderous applause rang in Joan Tozzer's ears as she glided out into the spotlight . . . Joan, as you know, is the ladies national champ, and is seeking to retain her crown at Cleveland . . .

She skated alone and in a doubles exhibition with her partner, Bernard Fox, Harvard Law School student . . . In her solo number she wore a flaring skating dress of pale pink wool with coral satin facing the skirt . . . and for the doubles she changed into a creamy flannel dress faced with electric blue to match her tiny skull cap . . . Bernard paid her the honor of wearing a necktie just the same shade of blue, with his black tights and regulation skating coat . . .

Gretchen Merrill and Dorothy Glazier who are also entered in the national competition, won warm applause, while Betsy Nichols, national novice champion, sat on the sidelines and relaxed in preparation for the strenuous routines at Cleveland . . . Fay Kirby, Stephen Tanner, Sylvia Van Ness, John Leith, and little Leslie Glazier, so tiny her hair is still in pigtales, also demonstrated thrilling jumps, turns and spirals . . .

During the movies Lucy Pope and Sylvia Van Ness had the fun of seeing themselves as others see them . . . for they flashed across the screen in scenes from last winter's skating carnival at Boston Garden . . . Lucy was a bright figure in Saturday evening's audience in a scarlet velvet turban and blouse to set off her fitted gray suit . . .

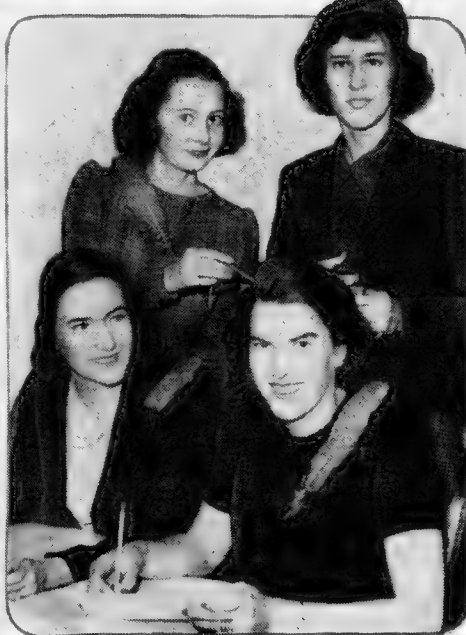

Others on the sidelines were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenkins, the latter in black with a crimson velvet crown on her hat, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Mickles with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Glazier, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Cordingley with Mrs. Lucius T. Hill, Richard Hapgood, Mrs. Edward M. Guild, Leslie Eustis and Louise Sargent . . .

Love And Marriage Wife Seeks Happiness

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been married for nine years to a man 20 years older than I. After going with him off and on for two years, he persuaded me to marry him. We haven't accomplished much, and now he has aged so much that he gets on my nerves. I find myself yearning for a younger companion.

I would have left him long ago but I know he loves me devotedly and while he is good to me most of the time, he has been very disrespectful in many ways. He isn't very healthy right now, as his work is hard, and I don't want to cause him to become mentally ill. He is the type who takes things to heart.

Perhaps I shouldn't feel this way, but I'm only 29, and as I've never really loved this man, but married him more for respect, I do want to be happy. Do you think I ought to make the best of it?

MRS. C. H. H.

Don't we all want to be happy, my dear? That cry is not at all unusual. Sometimes it's a job, sometimes security for old age, sometimes recognition of a talent we are convinced we have, and sometimes, like you, it's love. And again the longing is for friendship with someone of our own age. But everyone wants to be happy.

You see this situation so clearly yourself—your husband is older by twenty years than you are, he isn't well—that I don't believe you'd be happy if you left him in the expectation of finding your problem solved.

Macaroni Recipes Popular

By MARTHA LEE

There is no season for macaroni products—spaghetti, egg noodles, and their many varieties; they are always available. During the coming weeks when meatless meals will be served frequently, they can be a real help in preparing healthful and satisfying menus.

Macaroni is an ideal food for growing children, because of its digestibility.

For adults, too, macaroni products offer a pleasant change from potatoes, and when combined with other foods make nourishing main dishes—as well as salads and even desserts.

SHRIMP CHOWDER WITH

EGG NOODLES

- 1/4 pkg. egg noodles
- 1/2 cup diced fat salt pork
- 1 large onion
- 1 cup celery, diced
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 tsp. celery salt
- 2 cups shrimp, canned
- 2 cups milk
- 1 tbsp. butter
- 1 tbsp. flour

Cook egg noodles in boiling, salted water until tender; drain. Fry out fat pork. When crisp remove pork and cook onion in fat until delicately browned, being careful not to let it burn. Add celery and 4 cups boiling water. Cook 15 minutes. Then add the egg noodles and seasonings. Cook 10 minutes. Add shrimp; cook 5 minutes. Add milk. When this comes to a boil, thicken with the flour and butter cooked together. Pour into serving dishes and sprinkle with finely-minced parsley.

SPAGHETTI SAVORY

- 1/4 pkg. spaghetti
- 1 large can sardines
- 1 tsp. prepared mustard
- 1/2 tsp. curry powder
- 1 tsp. butter
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 tsp. salt

Chopped parsley
Cook spaghetti in boiling, salted water until tender. Pour off oil from sardines and add it to prepared mustard, curry powder and lemon juice. Coat sardines with this mixture. Season spaghetti with butter, 1/4 teaspoon salt and pepper and place in a serving dish. Lay sardines on this bed of hot spaghetti and sprinkle whole with chopped parsley.

SPAGHETTI AND APPLE SCALLOP

- 2 cups spaghetti (cooked)
 - 6 apples
 - 1/4 cup water
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 tsp. salt
 - 1/4 pkg. cream cheese
 - 1 cup bread crumbs
 - 1 tsp. butter
- Peel and slice apples. Cook with 1/4 cup of water (covered); when cooked, add sugar, spaghetti, salt and cream cheese. Pour in a well-buttered dish, cover with bread crumbs and piece of butter. Bake 20 minutes (covered) and allow 10 minutes uncovered to brown. This makes a delicious side dish.

MACARONI PEANUT ROLLS

- 3 cups cooked macaroni, chopped
 - 1/2 tsp. butter
 - 1/2 tsp. cur
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 tsp. salt
 - 1 cup peanuts, ground fine
 - 1 egg
 - 2 tsp. milk or water
 - 1/2 cup bread crumbs
- Make white sauce by melting butter, adding salt and flour and stirring until smooth. Then add milk and cook until thick and smooth. Mix chopped macaroni and peanuts together. Add white sauce and mix well together, forming into balls. Roll in egg and milk, then in bread crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Valentine Gift Tips

For Men Only, Please!

By ARLINE GOULD

"I sent a letter to my love" . . . well, boys, Valentine's day is fast approaching, and if you really want her to be your Valentine you won't wait until Feb. 14 and then hurriedly order a unimaginative corsage or box of fattening sweets.

If you want to zoom away up to her in the eyes of your lady-love, or the girl you are trying to persuade, for goodness sake put some romance and originality in your gift to her on this day dedicated to love.

If you're willing to declare your self utterly . . . particularly if she reciprocates . . . you couldn't find a tenderer, sweeter gift than the one which has been brought out by one of the world's greatest beauty experts.

It is a box of letters for your Valentine . . . five crisp envelopes in pastel shades, sealed, stamped and inscribed in old-fashioned script with such sweet sentiments as "My Own, You're Adorable"; "Sweet heart, Love Me Always"; and "Dearest, I Can't Forget You" . . . and all of them filled with fragrant, haunting snippet of a famous odor.

Or, if you don't dare commit yourself so completely, send her a flowery porcelain heart filled with cream rouge of superelegance. This container will accompany her dressing table, and serve as a constant, intimate reminder of you, my lad.

To impress her completely with your season fare there is a third gift on the clever woman's Valentine list. Perfume pens . . . strikingly novel and smart.

These are long pens for cosmetics, for hair, or finger ornaments, topped with a lovely glass-stoppered bulb. Good with everlasting perfume. I suggest of these in a corsage . . . a pair of these in a pocket is a fine, forward box with a celestial glow.

At the time of writing, you where to get these and other gifts at 100¢ each, plus 25¢ tax. If you wait until Feb. 14, they will be 150¢ each, plus 25¢ tax. So, if you want to be a Valentine, order yours now, before Feb. 14, and you'll be a Valentine for good.

Let Gang Sing Cowboy Songs

For genuine fun, nothing quite comes up to a good old song-fest of cowboy ditties. So get out your songbooks, pick a Western favorite like "Little Old Sod Shanty" and all join in:

"And we would make our fortunes on the prairies of the West,

Just as happy as two lovers we'd remain,

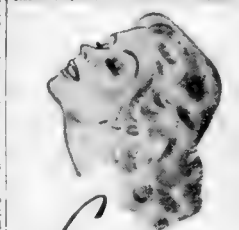

We'd forget the trial and troubles we endured at the first,

In the little old sod shanty on my claim."

And of course you'll want to sing "Red River Valley" and "Git Along Little Dogies." These and other great cowboy favorites are given in our 50-page songbook, Western Heart Throbs. Has 27 sure-fire hits—cowboy ditties, ballads of the Great Plains—complete with words, music, piano accompaniments, guitar diagrams.

DEER CREEK VALLEY

A Complete Short Story
Daily on This Page

By DENIS MORRISON

THE STRANGER came around a bend in the road and Bill Baxter, called Bill the Bull, glimpsed him out of the corner of his eye. Bill was startled.

The road was a narrow, rutted mule track that ran down from the main highway cutting across the Malibu mountains from Ventura Boulevard to the sea. Bill had a right to be startled. He had lived seventeen years in Deer Creek Valley and no such phenomenon ever had met his eyes before.

He did not betray surprise.

The stranger kept on coming.

At 20 feet he paused.

"Hello, there!" he said.

"Where can a fellow bed down for the night?"

"No hotels in the valley that I know of."

"I'm on a walking tour, see?"

He laughed shortly. "Guy in a spot like me'll take anything he can get. I got money to pay."

"Why don't you try the Springs over the mountain?"

"Don't like that place. I was travelin' up there on the highway and looked down and seen this place all so green and cool lookin' and I says to myself, there's a place I'd like to stay awhile."

"Him," said Bill Baxter. "Well, come on in, stranger. Reckon I can fix you up a bunk."

The sun was setting over the jagged crest of the hills. Bill's eyes glanced upward to where he could see the flag flying atop the fire ranger station. The fire rangers were his buddies. In fact they had just finished wigwagging him a signal that one or two of them would be around that evening to pay a call.

The reason for that was a haunch of venison hanging in the smokehouse behind Bill's cabin. It mattered little that deer happened to be out of season at the moment. The fire warden understood that a man must protect his crops; and when the deer get so numerous and hungry that they invade corn patches, night—well, that placed deer in the category of predatory beasts. Or did it? Anyway, that's how it worked out. And nobody ever went hungry in Deer Creek Valley, not even the fire warden stationed on the peak above.

Bill considered the stranger carefully, watched him stow away his blanket pack with meticulous care as if it might contain something more precious than blankets.

"Reckon you can make up that spare bunk in the corner," Bill said. "Feel right to home."

"Much obliged. What's that you got there, an organ?"

"Yep. Old reed organ. Was a time in these parts when she was played quite a lot. Belonged to the preacher. We ain't got a preacher no more so I took over the organ.

I only use her for marryin's and buryin's and the like o' that but we ain't had such hereabouts for so long I reckon the old organ's out o' kilter. Last time I played her was when Pod Shanks's oldest, Maria, got hitched and left the valley.

Pod, he come over with his banjo and we had quite a time. Yep, quite a time. But right now I'm so out o' practice I doubt if I could raise 'Onward Christian Soldiers' out of her pipes. Have you et?"

OLD BILL ACTS

All this time Bill was keeping a wary eye on the young fellow. Bill had a sort of prescience in these matters acquired from some years back when he had done a stretch of time himself. Bill in his early days had been a wild, harum-scarum young fellow, one of the Calabazas gang that used to dart out from the fastnesses of Malibu on swift ruses directed mostly against outlanders from the nearby city of Los Angeles.

His own experiences had given Bill a tolerance toward all persons trying to elude the police. Yet a certain oily sleekness about his surprise guest, a hardness about the eyes and the cruel lines of his mouth in repose put Bill instinctively on guard.

A little after dusk Henry Ostermuth of the fire patrol arrived. In the smokehouse Bill said:

"Henry, I wish you'd slip over to the sheriff's substation and bring me copies of all the reward notices they got there for crooks on the lam."

"You goin' into the detectin' business, Bill?"

"Well, you see, Pod Shanks and me listens to the radio a lot and we just thought it might be interestin' to have them reward circulars handy when we tune in on them crime programs."

Pod Shanks took to the stranger, not being a knowing soul like Bill. Invited him on a rabbit-hunting trapeze through the hills and later on they stopped at Pod's cabin a quarter of a mile from Bill's. And that's where the stranger met Maudie.

She was 17 and a typical mountain lass, fresh as one of the laurel sprigs that grow up the hillsides.

lithe as a yearling willow, with straight brown hair and a complexion that had never known or needed assistance beyond what nature provided.

When the stranger arrived back at Bill's place to bed himself down, he made a remark that caused Bill to glow through the darkness:

"Some doll baby, that Maudie."

It wasn't what he said so much as the way he said it that ate into Bill's craw.

"Buddy, when I took you in I wasn't hangin' you no blanket permit to mess around. Maudie's a nice gal."

"Nice girl. Sure, sure, oldtimer. Wears clothes like a scarecrow but the next time one of your friends comes down off the hill I'm gonna send him to town to buy her some-

Next day Pod Shanks confided to Bill:

"Looka like mebbe you'll hafta oil up the old reed organ and I'll have to tune up by banjo. Maudie and the stranger is a guttin' serious."

"That ain't a good idee," said Bill. "Why ain't it? Seems a nice feller and shore and has the coin. Says he'll build me a new cabin."

"What you want with a new cabin? Ain't you comfortable?"

"Why, shore, Bill, but what the heck—"

"Bet you don't even know the stranger's name, Pod?"

"Come to think of it, I ain't ever give it a thought."

"Look here at this. I run across his picture."

He handed Pod a sheet on which were two likenesses, one a straight front view, the other a profile.

"It's him," said Pod. "What's it here to breakfast. But I never did aim to be no snitch."

"Jimmy Jehosophats! Dang if I ain't goin' right home and tell Maudie to haul them new glad rags off her back."

"Now you're talkin'," said Bill. "Th's early valley twilight was gatherin'. Bill sat humped, chin resting on his massive chest. Suddenly he got up, driven by an impulse, and went to the reed organ. 'I'll play one tune,' he told himself. 'Always makes me feel better to play a tune.'"

The foot pedals wouldn't work. Something was obstructing them. Now Bill showed how he had earned his nickname of the Bull.

THE MONEY

He lifted the organ off the floor and set it down on its side, felt with his fingers under the pedal to see what was interfering with the instrument's operation. His fingers clutched something. Bill peered in the dimming light and saw that it was a huge roll of currency. New bills. Big ones. Even the original bank wrapper was still on it. He dropped it into his pocket, righted the organ, and began softly to play an old hymn.

Pod Shanks came back and announced: "Maudie's gone. Can't find hide nor hair of her."

Bill said: "Him. Pod, you go on back home and set. I'll bring Maudie back."

And Bill, standing heavily, planted himself in his rocking chair to meditate on things he had seen below the border in other days.

Bill knew how to be patient. For two hours he sat rocking gently. A voice behind him was the first intimation he had of the presence of another.

"You've got my dough, oldtimer. Hand it over without any fuss. I'm screaming."

For a split second Bill the Bull sat motionless. Then with a jerking movement he swung back in the rocking chair, turning it completely over backward. He lashed out with his feet with the same motion while his powerful hands tackled Rey around the knees.

Rey fired twice, wildly. Bill seized him in a gorilla grip, held him high, and threw him to the floor with terrific force. Rey lay still.

Pod heard the shots and came running. In another moment Maudie arrived from up the hill, panting in her new finery. Bill said:

"Pod, you and me will tie this feller up. In the mornin' you go git Henry Ostermuth to come down and take him away. There's right smart of a reward onto him. He paused grinning.

"What you laughin' at, Bill?"

"Why, Pod, I was laughin' to think how spry'd that there bank is gonna be to git its money back—all on account of because a feller happened to make the wrong crack about a nice little gal like Maudie."

1939 Retail Sales Soar Over '38 Total

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Retail sales in 1939 amounted to $37,950,000,000, an increase of $2,500,000,000 over 1938, according to Commerce Department estimates.

The 1939 figure was about $2,000,000,000 under the 1937 recovery peak. Half of this difference was attributed by the Department to lower prices and half to smaller sales in the automobile field.

Secretary Hopkins, in announcing the estimates, said that the upswing was shared by all major business groups. Although automobile sales were below 1937, they increased 23 per cent over 1938.

Mail order houses showed the greatest gain in general merchandise sales with a 12 per cent increase.

A less favorable outlook for 1940 was forecast by the CIO today in its monthly survey of business conditions. The labor organization's economic outlook based the current economy drive in Congress as the major depressing factor. It said others were:

A "substantial" decline in steel production, which it said would come in the first quarter of 1940.

Sharp declines in production and employment in the automobile industry, said to be "coming soon."

A "continuing decline" in orders for basic raw materials.

Failure of private investment to pick up.

The survey concluded that the federal budget played "the chief role among the depressing factors." Cancellation of the government's contribution of purchasing power by reduction of WPA expenditures, the survey added, "will result in a sharp drop in consumer expenditures."

The Commerce Department estimated that the quantity of food and general merchandise sold in 1939 was equal to that of 1937 and about seven per cent above 1938.

Variety store sales climbed 55 per cent to $400,000,000, passing the previous high marks of 1937 and 1935.

Food sales were up two per cent to $9,950,000,000 and a similar station sales gained one per cent to $2,425,000,000.

Beer and liquor sales of $115,000,000 were recorded, an increase of six per cent over 1938 and drinking places had indicated sales of $277,000,000, a gain of 35 per cent.

Other industrial gains: Furniture and household appliances, 125 per cent; lumber, building and hardware stores, 10 per cent; jewelry stores, 11 per cent; department, dry goods and general merchandise stores, 65 per cent; apparel stores, 55 per cent.

R. I. REVENUE FIGURES DROP

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The treasury has reported that the federal revenue collections in Rhode Island last year amounted to $22,915,117 compared with $24,400,000 in 1938.

Corporation and individual income taxes for 1938 totaled $2,418,734 compared with $1,684,991 in 1935, while payroll taxes rose from $3,452,975 in 1936 and $2,817,171 in 1935.

Miscellaneous interest revenue in 1939 totaled $5,933,136 and $13,832,924 in 1935.

Bay State Revenue Collections Slump

A sharp drop in internal revenue collections in Massachusetts was revealed today in a treasury report at Washington.

A total of $132,547,957 was paid in 1938, compared to $178,743,001 in 1935.

Says Pacts Hurt Farms

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Contending that the reciprocal trade agreements program had harmed agriculture, Rep. Knutson (R.) of Minnesota, said today that statistics of the agriculture department refuted the assertions of Secretaries Wallace and Hull that it had increased farm exports.

"The figures furnished by Mr. Wallace's own department show a tremendous falling off in the percentage of important agricultural exports," Knutson said.

"It is shown that in 1939 we exported 41.9 per cent of our cotton production, 17 per cent of our wheat production, 35.3 per cent of our tobacco production, and 3.7 per cent of our pork products. By 1938, we exported but 24.1 per cent of the cotton produced, 11.4 per cent of the wheat produced, 28.8 per cent of our tobacco production, and but 1.10 of one per cent of our total pork products."

STOP BUSINESS JITTERS, WIN PROSPERITY SAYS AFL HEAD

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5 (INS)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a speech here declared that the country is in "a jittery state of mind" and asserted that "those in authority" in the federal government must get together with business and effect a lasting peace.

Green spoke at a forum at the Tamiami Temple Methodist Church. He is in Miami attending at the midwinter sessions of the executive council of the A. F. of L.

"Business confidence must be restored," said Green. "The country is suffering from a jittery state of mind. Investors are frightened, businessmen are afraid to expand or increase their activity."

"Those in authority in our government must get together with business and effect a lasting peace. Government distrust of business, whether justified or unjustified, must cease. There is no sense in it. The American people will not stand for it."

"We cannot dodge the fact that lack of confidence exists. As long as it continues to exist, the depression will be prolonged. Only when confidence is restored can recovery come."

Green said he believed that American industry will shift into gear and start rolling "as soon as the government and business are Americans."

the government shows it the green light. He continued:

"We hear complaints from business men about progressive legislation that has been adopted. But their fundamental complaint is that they feel they have no assurance for the future."

"That assurance must be forthcoming quickly in the public interest, and for the sake of the millions who are now suffering because there are not enough jobs to go around."

By inference, Green took a gentle slap at John L. Lewis, head of the CIO, when he said:

"The A. F. of L. makes no arbitrary demands. It does not engage in 'blitzkrieg' politics. People who throw bombshells, duds or otherwise, usually find them tossed back into their own faces. The American Federation of Labor keeps the friends it makes."

Discussing the foreign situation, Green said the people of this country should be grateful that they are Americans. He said:

"We have our troubles here in America. It is true, serious troubles. More than nine million men and women willing and anxious to work and earn a living can find no opportunities for jobs. Factories sit idle by the thousands, capital is stymied, yet millions of potential consumers do not have enough for their needs."

"Huge crop surpluses go to waste and farmers fail to obtain profitable prices because a large proportion of our population in the low income groups lack purchasing power and can't afford to buy goods which industry produces, yet the American people will not give way in despair. We must and we shall evolve a program by which we can master and control our economic machinery instead of being crippled by it."

He said the No. 1 problem in America is unemployment, and that a way must be found to provide work opportunities for the 9,000,000 jobless.

Godoy Gets Pointers On How to Lick Louis

IT MAY BE A LITTLE PREVIOUS TO TALK ABOUT the technical aspects of the Louis-Godoy fight. It doesn't take place till next Friday and, from box office reports, is awakening the wildest disinterest. The only thing that makes the topic timely is Jimmy Braddock's advice to Godoy. Jimmy, the emeritus champion who displayed little more than an unconquerable soul and an arthritic punch and one whistling uppercut against Joe in 1937, is lifting his voice from the fistic tomb. So is Tony Galento! So is Jack Dempsey! So is Gene Tunney!

AUSTEN LAKE

No man, says Braddock, can match Louis in straight, stand-up punching or the mixed arts of sock and block. Godoy's only chance, he says, is to backpedal slowly, biding his time until the Negro overreaches himself and then, leap in with looping roundhouse hooks and maybe a sharp uppercut, "like I landed in Chicago," says J. J. fondly.

But Galento says, "Stand in close and swing—keep swingin' till you or the other guy goes down." Then he too adds, "like I nailed the bum last June." Yes! That had been a good punch, one that started from Tony's hip-pocket and bounced Louis on his hams. "A little more a dat 'ugh!" says Tony, "an there he'd a gone..."

It is a rosy, but futile dream.

How to Lick Louis (?)

THE CURIOUS THING ABOUT MOST FIGHTERS who have faced Louis is that they all professed to know the secret of licking him. Both before and after the fight. But excepting only Max Schmeling they didn't remember the correct method during the actual jollities. Remember Schmeling's pre-'36 remark, "I see somedings!"?—which wasn't what he saw on the night of June 21, 1937.

I think now that Jack Dempsey with his power punch and cat-like quickness would have licked Louis in his prime. Gene Tunney might! But none of the nondescript chumps who now clutter up the ring. So let Godoy examine the systems employed by the Negro's major opponents and take his choice—if he has any choice.

Carnera stood solidly on his fiddle feet, with his long arms outstretched like a pair of hat rack hooks, trying to club his man down by sheer strength and finally breaking into a backward gallop with a beard of crimson bubbles drooping from his chin and pop-eyed hysteria in his eyes.

Baer, for all his advance braggadocio, hid in a nest of elbows, faking an occasional feeble hook and crab-walking backwards in jerky circles until he went down in a dying-swan pose and waved farewell to the suckers who had paid $27.50 to see it done.

Schmeling in his first coming, stood his ground with his right glove tucked under his jaw and his eyes purpling with repeated stabs until he fired a long range punch, born of desperation, which landed on Louis' sweet-spot and rendered him rubberlimbed. And though Max hit him repeatedly after that it was the initial belt that did the business. So the second coming was what the first should have been, a plain butchery with Louis ripping Max to shreds before you could say Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Sharkey, an antiquated hulk, tossed a few clumsy swipes before being herded into a corner and having his jaws rocked back and forth until he slumped down the ring strands and took the toll kneeling and snuffing up his nose bleed.

Pastor, in his first ten rounds, ran away like a college halfback threading a broken field and ran some more in his second fight until he tumbled down from sheer fatigue.

All in One Wallop

ONLY THREE FIGHTERS HAVE LANDED SOLID busts on Joe's jaw and each time he went down: Schmeling in '36, Braddock in '37 and Galento in '39. So that Godoy's one, forlorn chance seems to be a full roundhouse wallop dedicated to Lady Luck and a hope that fortune will be kind enough to guide it to the jackpot—that little nerve center on Joe's jaw.

Galento had the best chance since Schmeling. For he was an unorthodox, alley-type of scrapper who didn't conform to gymnasium technique. His slam-bang style was essentially the same as when he learned

11,000 HAIL PHOTO FINISH AT SILVER SKATES DERBY

By OLYMPIAN

Like twin striking hawks the flying Goguen brothers of Fitchburg swooped down on the finish line in the final heat of the Men's Senior event of the Silver Skates Derby, last event on the card in the Boston Garden, yesterday afternoon.

Neck and neck, with neither ever being more than an eyelash ahead of the other, they shot down the final straightaway, Alex winning over Clarence in the last desperate lunge for the worsted.

Record Entry For Dog Show

Irish Setters are setting the pace with the bull terriers not far behind in the early returns of entries for the 28th annual all-breed show of the Eastern Dog Club at Mechanics Building, Feb. 18 and 19.

Figures for the show, as a whole, are running well ahead of the total at a corresponding date last year and indications are that a record round-up of doggies will be on parade at Mechanics. Entries close Saturday at 6 p. m.

It also was announced today that the New England Dog Training Club, which will stage two special obedience demonstrations the last day in addition to its regular trials and will send a team of six dogs to New York, to seek national honors in the intersectional team competition at the Westminster show, Feb. 13.

Bert D. Turnquist of Jamaica Plain, one of the instructors at the Irvington street dog college, will lead the invasion of New York and will be accompanied by five other local members.

BALANCE. Edi Scholden executes difficult stunt before 11,000 Silver Skates patrons. Edi's performances were highlights of show, especially his pairs act with Mickey Simpson. Both are instructors at Arena.

Fred Apostoli Shows Improvement

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Fred Apostoli, battered into submission Friday night in a light-heavyweight boxing bout with Melio Bettina and rushed to Polyclinic Hospital—where he was also found to be suffering from an attack of gripe—was greatly improved.

How was it? Well, the doctors at the hospital here say.

The Silver Skates Derby, the Goguen brothers of Fitchburg, the Boston Garden, yesterday afternoon, the fittingly ring down the curtain on a long afternoon of excitement and thrills that made every mother's son and daughter among the 11,000 persons, who gave up their usual Sunday dinner or Sabbath siesta in order to attend, feel it was well worth the sacrifice.

The Silver Skates Derby of 1940 will live long in the memories of those fortunate enough to witness it.

In addition to the seven race series of stirring contests among the fleetest knights and ladies of the steel blades in the East, spectators were treated to sensational fancy skating exhibitions by two of the greatest artists, Bostonians—and they have seen the best and greatest—ever were privileged to look upon.

They were bewitching. Back An-

What the Fans Say:

BOOING OF BRUINS BLASTED BY FAN

Mr. Bill Grimes
Boston American.

Dear Sir—
I am a sincere supporter of the Boston Bruins. Last Tuesday night I saw and heard an unbelievable and I should say, an unparalleled incident at the Boston Garden. I saw one of the greatest teams in ice hockey history skate out onto its home ice and I heard it booed by its own "fans."

Thirteen of those 15 men helped bring the Stanley Cup back to Boston last season (remember) after 10 years of trying. May I remind you that Eddie Shore was on the losing team, as well as last season's successful one, so he alone couldn't have been responsible for its capture.

Yes sir, the Boston fans booed the Boston Bruins and you together with a couple of other sports writers, are solely responsible for their action. You deliberately instigated that tragic incident by your biased, unfair, and in certain instances, vicious handling of Shore's transfer to the Americans, a transfer that was completely satisfactory to Eddie.

I am and always will be a great admirer of Eddie Shore as a hockey player, but given my choice between him and the Boston Bruins team that skated onto its home ice on Jan. 20th, 1940 and scored a five to nothing shut-out over not only the Chicago Blackhawks but also at least 50 per cent of the attendance at that game—who won in spite of the opposition of their so-called fans—I'll take the team.

The sports writers have made much of the fact that Eddie Shore gave thirteen years of his life to Boston hockey but not one has troubled to add that Arthur Ross has given seventeen years of his; and not just the five or six playing months of each year but a full twelve months, day and night—planning, managing, searching out and developing promising young players of whom Eddie Shore himself was once one.

I sympathized with the fans who booed during the season "We want Shore" but I realized as the season progressed that it didn't matter that "we wanted Shore" because Mr. Shore obviously didn't want us.

NANCY ADAMS.

102 Beacon St.
(Ed. Note—Nancy Adams is the wife of Weston Adams, president of the Boston Bruins.)

DEAR MR. GRIMES:

I am grateful for the chance to have my say. Eddie is gone but we won't forget, and Mr. Ross you won't be able to forget because there won't be any more turning to the left and right and all over the streets. Eddie gave us hockey fans everything from chills to thrills and he also enlarged your bank account. There is a saying in the loss that if you can't participate in a sport to be one anyway, too bad you don't abide by this. You gave Eddie and the fans a dirty deal, now we will give you one.

Mr. Arthur Fiville's idea sounds good, let's get together.

Good luck, Eddie Shore.

KATHERINE DE VITO.

(Ed. Note—The Bruins-Rangers game at the Garden tomorrow is a sell-out.)

39 Brighton Street,
Charlestown, Mass.

DEAR MR. BILL GRIMES:
I am a fan who has been going to the Bruins hockey games for years. I have always been a great admirer of Eddie Shore but his attitude in regards to the Bruins has me puzzled.

I believe it all started last season when Art Ross tried Cooney Weiland as coach. Then Shore put a chip on his shoulder as proved by his purchase of Springfield and his actions thereafter.

I believe Ross knew what he was doing when he picked Cooney for his assistant.

In trading Shore, they gave to the Americans a player who was of no use to the Bruins because he didn't want to play for them, and when he did he grabbed all the headlines, thereby causing dissension among the team because all players like their share of publicity.

In acquiring Eddie Wiseman they secured a man who fills in a sore spot on the team.

Art Ross is still the greatest manager in hockey barring none. He has developed more outstanding players than any other in the game.

Let's forget about this latest Shore incident and cheer the Bruins on to the Stanley Cup.

Yours sincerely,
WILLIAM DONOVAN

DEAR BILL:
I think that someone should send an S. O. S. to Mayor Kane of Woburn and have him send over a few of his spare call firemen to put out the remaining sparks at the Old Depot.

Eddie Shore and Art Ross must be having a grand laugh between themselves at the way the fans have reached out for the bomb which Ross made and Shore set off last week.

Instead of growling about the Shore deal which happened just the way Eddie Shore, Art Ross and the rest of the National League planned it, the fans should really screech about the way the Bruins management handles the ticket situation.

... just try and get a ticket for the Rangers game Tuesday night! The sale of tickets didn't go on until only 1000 seats were available for the fans.

The box office opened at 8 a. m. when most of us were at work and practically all of these seats were grabbed by "Specs" and a few lucky fans who could be at the Garden at 8 o'clock in the morning. At Macy's you can get plenty of real good seats for an added 50 to 75c charge. Talk about Shore getting a raw deal—he got well paid for his deal.

I really think that it is about time that some sports writer rallied for the fans for the "raw deal ticket situation." You would gain a lot of friends Bill, and you'd be giving the fans the only break they ever have had since hockey came to Boston.

JEAN MALLOY.

108 High St., Dedham, Mass.

WHO'S WHO?—It's a wild mixup of courtmen as Ken Davidson, Stanford guard, ends up beneath the pile trying to clear the ball. Teammate Bill Cowden on left tries to make it, but Bob Feerick, Santa Clara star, reaches over to deflect the ball. Santa Clara won, 42 to 40, in the Coast court classic at San Francisco.

HARVARD SEXTET ACTIVE

Playing their first game in over three weeks the Harvard hockey team faces a hard week with a game against the Junior Olympics on Wednesday and Dartmouth at Hanover on Saturday in a return engagement of the Quad League.

At times the Crimson have shown fine form, but the team has failed to function up to expectations. Clark Hodder will probably shake up his lineup in an effort to put the Cantabs back on the winning road again.

Dave Eaton, the best play maker on the team has been moved from center on the second line to the starting lineup. Warren Winslow, the high scorer on the Crimson six, has moved to wing which means that Bob Gorham has been put down on the third line. Hal Ervin will continue as the other wing on the starting line.

There has been a shakeup in the defense which finds Coleman and Gray still the starting defense duo, but the second ranking men are Summers and Perkins. Penning has been playing on the first forward line most of the season. George Dreher and Bob Gorham will be used as spares, both at defense and in the forward line.

Harvard will be the underdog in both of the contests this week. The Crimson and the Juniors played a tie in a practice game earlier in the season. Dartmouth defeated the Cantabs 5-4 in an overtime session.

The winning goal for the Indians was disputed for over ten minutes and the Hoddermen will be out on Saturday to square the score with the Big Green before a capacity Winter Carnival crowd.

HOOP TEAM BUSY
Other highlights on the Harvard athletic calendar for the week are two Ivy League hoop games with Dartmouth at Cambridge on Wednesday and Princeton on Saturday.

Gus Broberg, one of the greatest basketball players ever developed in New England, will be making his only Greater Boston appearance of the season. Last season as a soph, Broberg hung up a new League scoring record with 159 points and against Penn this year he set a new one-game record with 29 points.

Hal Ulen's undefeated men's face the Boston Red Sox at Cambridge on Wednesday and will meet Columbia on Saturday in a League swim meet. Harvard is expected to continue its undefeated streak. Another highlight of the week's contests will find Pat Johnson's powerful wrestling team grappling with the Tigers at Princeton on Saturday.

Bobby Riggs Rallies To Beat Mulloy

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago came from far behind to beat Gardner Mulloy, Miami, in the finals of the Pensacola invitational tennis tournament.

Mulloy won the first two sets easily, 6-1, 6-2, forcing Riggs into repeated errors. The national champion then steadied and, playing a deep court game that kept Mulloy on the run, won three straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4. Mulloy held a 2-2 lead in games in the final set, but Riggs broke the tall Miami's service twice to click off four straight games and the match.

Shore and Dutton To Rebuild Clubs With Young Icemen

By BILL GRIMES

A couple of hours before game time, somebody started a rumor that Eddie Shore was in town and would play against the Bruins. . . . The rumor reached Manager Art Ross, who telephoned the news to Manager "Red" Dutton. . . . "I've been around the hotel since we came to town and I haven't seen him," declared Dutton.

After he hung up, Dutton put in a call to Springfield and was very much relieved when Mr. Hockey answered the phone. . . . It seems that Shore had telephoned Dutton late yesterday afternoon and had asked for permission to come to Boston and play against the Bruins.

Due to the fact that it had been announced that Eddie would NOT play, Dutton refused to sanction his coming. "Such a move would not have been fair to the fans," Dutton said. "And, the Boston hockey public have always been very fair to Eddie. So that was why, I wouldn't let him come here."

Eddie Shore will confer with Pres. Frank Calder and Manager Dutton tomorrow in New York. . . . Shore and Dutton are trying to arrange a schedule whereby Eddie will play in as many N. H. L. cities as possible.

Shore has some commitments in Springfield but Dutton hopes to change the International-American League schedule so that Eddie will be free for one swing around the circuit. . . .

SHORE OVERWORKED

Due to the fact that he had played five games in eight days, Eddie Shore wouldn't have been able to show at his best last night. . . . He played 45 minutes in that 9 to 3 game against New Haven Saturday night. . . . From here it looks like Eddie Shore has eased himself into a fine setup with Red Dutton. . . .

At the end of this season, Dutton is going to turn loose all of his old timers. . . . The chances are that he will not retain more than two or three of his present squad. . . . He has some of the best amateurs in Western Canada under his wing and intends to bring them up next fall. . . .

Shore will also clean house and will start from scratch with a squad of youngsters. . . . Dutton was to have brought up four boys this fall but the amateur club with which they are playing tried to stick him up for $1000 for each player.

Frank Calder, who is also president of the New York Americans, ruled against his own club and the kids were set back one year.

Nels Stewart has reached the stage in his playing career, where he is no longer required to practice

Red Dutton is trying to get Stewart through this season and figures that test is more beneficial than practice sessions.

Wild Field and Buzz Holl received leg cuts during the first period. . . . Jimmy Bagley put the Whammy on Frankie Brimsek by announcing that it was Mr. Zero's fourth shutout of the season. . . . Then, bang, Lorne Carr scored.

Frank "King" Clancy, the referee "stoned" Earl Robertson's skate with his whistle just before the opening of the second period. . . . Incidentally, Clancy is now rated as the best referee in the N. H. L.

Frank "King" Clancy, the referee "stoned" Earl Robertson's skate with his whistle just before the opening of the second period. . . . Incidentally, Clancy is now rated as the best referee in the N. H. L.

Big Nels Stewart missed no less than four golden scoring opportunities last night. . . . When Big Nels missed an open net in the second period with the Amerks only two goals down, Red Dutton was quick to change the play. . . . In fact, when he made the next change, he sent four men out to replace five. . . . There will be 1000 New Hampshire Rotarians, from Laconia, Concord and Manchester at the Bruins-Rangers game tomorrow night. . . .

They will make the trip in a 15 car special train. . . . The Rangers did a terrible job on Les Canadiens last night, shutting them out 5 to 0, the worst defeat suffered in the N. H. L. this season. . . .

The Flying Frenchmen have folded up and they won't draw flies in Montreal for the rest of the season. . . . Frankie Finnigan, who played in the N. H. L. until everyone was fully convinced that he was all washed up, is now in the Ottawa City League, an amateur organization. . . . Frank is in the Canadian air service. . . .

Art Chapman's stomach kicked up on him yesterday on the way here from New York. . . . It was the first trouble he has experienced since his operation, which benched him for six weeks. . . .

Milt Schmidt was suffering from a heavy cold last night. . . . So Manager Art Ross gave him, and the other two Krauts, who have been working hard all season today off. . . . The rest of the Bruin squad worked out at the Arena. . . . "Red" Hamill showed promise as a defense man. . . . Art Ross will not announce the name of his extra player until tomorrow night. . . .

Dodgers Sign Cullenbine, Ex-Detroiter

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced they had signed outfielder Roy Cullenbine, one of 91 Detroit players and farm hands recently declared free agents by Baseball Commissioner Landis, for a bonus of $25,000 and a one-year contract calling for an unspecified salary.

Cullenbine told Dodger officials he had received offer from eight clubs, with the Cincinnati Reds, Boston Bees, Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants, the National League clubs, bidding against him.

The 25-year-old outfielder was used chiefly as a pinch-hitter by the Tigers last year.

He appeared in 75 games and while he had a batting average of only .240, 17 of his 43 hits were for extra bases. He hit six home runs three of them in one game, off Bob Feller of the Indians.

A switch hitter, Cullenbine broke into baseball in mid-season of 1935 with Beaumont of the Texas League.

He stayed with Beaumont through 1936, and in 1937 and 1938 played with Toledo of the American Association. He batted over .300 there each year, and drove in a total of 138 runs.

Next to Benny McCoy, second baseman secured by the Philadelphia Athletics for a $45,000 bonus and two-year contract at $10,000 a year, Cullenbine was regarded as the most valuable piece of baseball property "freed" by Commissioner Landis' office.

SHORE-LESS AMERKS SCUTTLED BY BRUINS

Playing without Eddie Shore, the New York Americans were a push-over for the Bruins last night at the Boston Garden and went down to a 7 to 1 defeat.

Although the hockey public had been advised that "Mr. Hockey" would not be in the Amerks' lineup, approximately 13,000 cash customers were on hand for the tilt.

Bill Cowley came through with two nice goals with Herbie Cain, Bobby Bauer, Mel Hill, Bill Hollett and Woody Dumart accounting for the other five. Roy Conacher did all right by himself with three assists, while Milt Schmidt figured in the Bauer and Dumart tallies.

Little Eddie Wheman, after missing a fine scoring opportunity, played an important role in the first goal. Eddie took a pass from Bill Hollett went in on Robertson and shot but the puck was right on the New York goal minder.

However, before Robertson was able to clear, Herbie Cain raced in and scored on the rebound.

Early in the second period, Buzz Holl drew a penalty for tripping Woody Dumart and then the Krauts went into action. Capt. Clapper started the play and when he hit the New York defense passed to Milt Schmidt, who, in turn, relayed the puck to Bobby Bauer for the second goal.

COWLEY MISSES
Eleven minutes later, Roy Conacher set up a nice pass for Bill Cowley but the Cowboy missed connection. Then, Roy teamed with Mel Hill and the latter scored the third Boston goal on a lightning shot from 10 feet out.

Between Hill's goal and the first that Bill Cowley scored, Nels Stewart missed two beautiful chances to beat Frankie Brimsek much to his disgust. Less than two minutes before the end of the period, Bill Cowley deflected a Roy Conacher shot into the net and as the game was over.

Immediately after the third period face off, Bill Hollett, who was playing center outfoxed Wilf Field, then pushed the puck through "Chuck" Conacher's feet, recovered it and went in and beat Robertson on the prettiest play of the game.

Six minutes elapsed before the Bruins failed again. Bill Cowley recovered his own rebound and beating the New York goalie.

Leading by six goals, the Bruins eased off and Lorne Carr saved a shutout by scoring on a three-man attack with "Busher" Jackson and Art Chapman.

The Krauts ganged up on the Americans for the seventh and final goal at 12:08. Hooley Smith attempted to clear the puck but it hit Bobby Bauer's skate and was deflected onto Schmidt's stick and Milt passed forward to Woody Dumart, who was racing in at top speed. Robertson didn't have a chance for the puck was in the tape before he had time to shift.

STUFF about STEEDS

By Ken Kling

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 5.

Dear Aunt Hattie:

The cold wave which hit Miami last week turned many hot horses into stiffs. I mentioned it in Friday's letter, not knowing that Thursday night a few jockeys were questioned by the race track stewards, resulting in the suspension of one rider.

A "stiff" in racetrack language, is a peltor who is doing his best to win, but quite often the rider is not in on the scheme.

There are a dozen ways in which a smart stable can cause a horse to race below form. Heavy shoes, plenty of water, change of equipment, etc., would make even Sebastian finish in the ashcan.

There are more double-crossings on the racetrack than at a railroad junction. When a jock hocks back a horse, the owner is seldom in on it. When an owner puts heavy shoe on a nag, the rider is seldom in on it.

The jockeys who usually get in trouble for questionable rides are young apprentices who become involved with bad company, gamblers who make it their business to "lay" outstanding public choices.

This doesn't make racetrack crooked, as these bad-looking things are usually engineered by fellows who aren't connected with the game.

I hope the suspended kid starts riding again. He was on a bad-legged, unreliable plug, who probably didn't feel like showing his best stuff that day.

The owner and boy might have been a great relief to the players to know the stewards are on their toes, and took our tip-off that a sm of the cheap plater races didn't look so "knoser."

Form upsets will occur as long as old plug races are entered to the post. Instead of carrying numbers on their saddle cloths, these ancient beetles should be provided with social security numbers and retire from competition.

Today I like Bettie Nux, Satisfaction, Anti Air, Halcyn Boy, Diabroom, Conrad Mann and High Arch. No guarantee goes with any of them, however. KEN.

RADCLIFFE ENTERED IN '1000'

Having already corralled the greatest mile field possible in Chuck Fenske, Glenn Cunningham, Gene Venske, Blaine Rideout and Lou Zamperini, Dezz Wadsworth, chairman of the B. A. A. games, which take place in the Garden next Saturday night, today sought to build up the Lapham 1000-yard sprint into an equal attraction.

His first move was to obtain Lynn Radcliffe, sophomore sensation from Syracuse University, and he was working overtime to add John Youe Woodruff to the field which already includes John Borican, Wayne Rideout, Howie Borek, Jose Zetler, Harlan Woods, Don Smith and Ted Clarke.

RADCLIFFE NATURAL

Like Woodruff, Radcliffe is a six-footer who Coach Tommy Keane says is a "natural."

Last year Rad did 50.2 in flat shoes on a flat floor as anchor man against Cornell and Colgate in the one-mile relay.

He has run the mile outdoors in 4m, 21s, and only last week ran a half mile on the 12-lap track at Syracuse in 1:38, which set a record for that track.

He is expected to develop into an even greater runner than Eddie O'Brien was before graduation.

TARZAN IN 3-MILE

Wadsworth also announced that the field had been filled for the "Pat Dengis Memorial Three-Mile Run." The list to go to the mark contained the names of Ellison "Tarzan" Brown, Westerly, R. I.; Leslie Pawsen, Pawtucket, R. I.; Johnny Kelley, Arlington; Lou Gregory, Millrose A. A. New York; Frank M. Darrah, Norfolk Young Men's Ass'n.; Paul Donato, Boston, and George Durgin, Boston A. A.

This race will be a slam bang affair from start to finish, with the competitors shooting at Pawsen's N. E. indoor record of 15m, 7.1s.

Minor Leaguers To 'Cut' Gate

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 5 (AP)—Minor leagues below class AA may now stage the so-called Shaughnessy series and legally permit the players to share in a portion of the gate receipts, as the result of a mail vote taken among members of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues by President W. G. Brannham.

Ever since Brannham pointed out that payment of any extra compensation was in violation of the rules, the matter has been a point of concern in the ranks of several leagues. The mail vote on an amendment to legalize such payments was requested by the Three-I League.

Under minor league law, unanimous consent of all 41 leagues operating in 1939 was required for passage of the amendment.

Quite a few other leagues were not in favor of the amendment, Brannham said, but did not wish to kill it by a negative vote.

Chief Hogsett Wants More Dough

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5 (AP)—Eldon "Chief" Hogsett, 36-year-old right-handed pitcher drafted from Minneapolis by the Athletics has returned his contract unsigned.

Hogsett is the third Athletic player to become a holdout. First baseman Dick Siebert and catcher Frankie Hayes announced several days ago they want more money.

Nurmi Sees U. S. Milers Too Fast for Maki; Says He'll Run 8:50 Two-Miler

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (INS)—Speed is inborn; stamina is acquired, said Lawson Robertson, American Olympic coach today, and for that very reason Taisto Maki, who is here to run a series of races for Finnish relief, had better stick to the middle distances at which he holds several world records and not try to compete with our American milers. Maki and Paavo Nurmi, the old champion who came over him, reached the same conclusion after seeing Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin beat the greatest field of milers ever gathered together in 4:07.4, the fastest competitive mile ever run indoors.

With Gunnar Barlund, the Finnish heavyweight, acting as interpreter, Maki told the International News Service today that Fenske & Co. had too much speed for him, and that he thought it would be advisable to run races at two miles or more, an opinion to which Nurmi nodded vigorous assent.

"These fellows today are better than the boys I ran against here 15 years ago," said Nurmi. "They've all learned how to run that third quarter of the mile. However, at two miles or more Maki can beat anybody in the world."

Maki saw Indiana's Don Lash equal the Garden record by winning the two-mile run in 9:00.9, but he was unimpressed because this is far behind Maki's world record of 8:53.

The little Finn—he is built like Lou Ambers and looks like an Irishman—said he believed the two miles should be run under 8:50 and that he could do it if conditions were right. An 8:50 two-miler would be just as phenomenal as a 4-minute miler.

Maki declared he got the thrill of his life in the sensational race run by Fenske.

Maki's eyes popped as he saw John Borican run the three-quarters in 3:02.6 for a new world record and Allan Tolmich of Detroit equal the world mark by topping the 60-yard hurdles in 0:07.3.

Maki is going to the coast to train and will run his first race in Los Angeles March 3.

to toss out bar-room bums in his Jersey beer palace. Rhythm, timing and muscular flow was secondary to a wild whack in the puss. So his very crudity puzzled Louis, who fumbled and sharpshot until he had Tony's seams unsewn, his nose looking like a foot, and his eyes puffed and bleeding. Up to the moment Tony gathered his scattered energy for one last wallop it was like fun in the slaughter house.

But when Tony sent Joe down, if he had saved a few grains of strength or had the simplest ring brains he might have come off champion. For Louis was hunched in an angle of the ropes trying to shake the mist from his brain and instead of belting his naked tummy, Tony poured his punches harmlessly into Louis' sheltering arms. In the same situation Dempsey would have had Louis down for keeps. So would Tunney.

SO I DOUBT THAT GODDY WILL FIND anything useful in Louis' earlier fights, or indeed that he can discover a tactic that has not been previously tried. The safest and most inglorious was Pastor's policy of backpedaling. So the issue next Friday will be one of how long Arturo's brain can stand being hammered and how long his facial hide can weather stabs and hacks from six ounce, skin-light mittens—that is, if he stands in and fights! Because he may decide to run away and enjoy the doubtful distinction of being a "man who Louis couldn't knock out." That has some box office value!

Whatever happens, runaway fiasco or sanguinary brawl, there will be one man who'll love it—Mike Jacobs, the promoter, who will be busy banking another haul of dollars. Mike has never lost a championship fight in his life.
